Exiled King Alfonso Of Spain And Family Meet In Paris

Paris Welcomes King Alfonso As He Reaches City

Exiled Spanish King And Queen Victoria Are Reunited After 48 Hours

HASTY FLIGHT IS AT AN END

Fully 30,000 In Paris Greet Former King As He Steps Down From Train

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 17—Paris, cradle of republicanism and haven of fallen monarchs, today became the active center of Spanish monarchism as Alfonso XIII of Spain and his family were reunited here after a hasty flight from Madrid.

Banished from their ancestral home when the ancient monarchy became a republic within the space of a few minutes, the royal couple and their children reached Paris by different routes after 48 hours of separation and established impromptu court at the Hotel Meurice.

King Serves Notice

The royal exiles may later proceed to London, but to all indications Alfonso, King of a mythical kingdom, intended to remain at this political vantage point to watch developments in Madrid with a shrewd eye. He already has served notice on the Republic of Spain that he left merely to avert a civil war there, and that he did not relinquish royal rights or abdicate his throne.

Both the King and Queen Victoria received warm welcomes on reaching French soil. Fully 30,000 persons jammed the Gare De Lyon and the outer square as the last of the Bourbon rulers arrived from Marseilles shortly before midnight. He looked wan and tired, but the great ovation the crowd gave him revived his slow smile.

Escorted By Police

A ring of police escorted him to an automobile, which sped away to the Hotel Meurice, where Queen Victoria and the children were anxiously awaiting him. They had journeyed overland to Paris, arriving some twelve hours ahead of Alfonso.

Reinforcements For Marines In Nicaragua Fight

Report Nicaraguan Rebels Planning To Seize Atlantic Ocean Port

MARINE FORCES ARE ENLARGED

Official Advices To Washington Report Ten Americans Are Killed

(International News Service)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 17.—United States marine corps brigade headquarters here was informed today that 300 Nicaraguan insurgents under the rebel chieftain Pedro Altamario were preparing to seize the port of Bluefields on the Atlantic side of Nicaragua.

The marine commandant was told that Altamario has gathered his forces at San Pedro Del Morte and is ready to swoop down up Bluefields. Led by seasoned native guides, the rebels were said to be planning the pillaging of the town in the rush manner of old "wild west" days.

Marines Reinforced.

The news of the impending attack caused little apprehension at Bluefields, as a strong force of "leathernecks" will take charge of that territory today as soon as the gunboat U. S .S. Sacramento arirves in port. It was believed that the bandits, learning of the approaching force, would abandon any attempts against the town.

American naval vessels were active in various Nicaraguan waters with outcrop of bandit activities in various spots. The national guardsmen protecting Puerto Cabezas from bandit attacks were reinforced by marines landed from the gunboat Asheville, under whose guns most American women and children were evacuated.

The cruiser Memphis was also reported enroute to Nicaragua from Cuba.

Looting Reported.

The American consulate at Bluefields reported the looting of Cape Gracias A Dios, with national guards planes bombing the raiders as they fled after pillaging the town.

Rama, another town in the northeastern coastal region, was also reported attacked by the bandits.

Official advices confirmed the previously reported killing of Lieu-

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla., April 17.—You have read of the San Blas Indians (not Sam Dash, but San Blas). Well all morning we flew low over their beautiful coral islands. You can land and visit them, but you must get away before night.

The old chief won't let you stop after dark, due to his foresight. They are the only 100 per cent pure Indians.

Coast of Colombia is beautiful, Cartagena with it old Spanish ports. Nearing Venezuela, stop for the night at Maracaibo. That's where all the foreign oil is coming in from that put our independent companies out of business.

I was told to not drink water in these tropical countries, I had never tried their beer with ham and eggs in the morning, but I am managing to gulp it down. However, I have heard of worse hardships.

REPUBLICAN REGIME IN SPAIN DISMISSES IDEA OF KING'S RETURN

New Government Assumes Task Of Keeping Spain United

Major Ramon Franco Returns In Triumph From Paris Exile

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, April 17.—Confident that the monarchy has vanished permanently, the Republican Government assumed the task of keeping Spain united in the face of disruptive qualms, and today turned its back upon Alfonso XIII's claim that he remains king.

The announcement by the exiled monarch that he had not abdicated and hoped to be back on the throne soon created little comment. A government statement disposed of the matter in the following summary:

Needs No Comment

"Mister Alfonso Bourbon's manifesto cannot be judged worthy of comment by the Republican cabinet. We prefer to let the country be the judge. We would be unfair to the monarchial reaction, because the people are supporting the Republic."

The wild rejoicing which lasted for two days on proclamation of a republic has about dissipated itself, although it flared briefly again when Major Ramon Franco arrived here from exile in Paris. Greeted at the station by great crowd, which remembered his spectacular attempt to start a revolution from the local airfield, he was carried in triumph to the streets. The government appointed him chief of the Republican Air Service.

RANSOM DEMAND WAS CUT TO $50,000

Kidnapers In Two Machines Believed Same Gang That Battled Officers

(International News Service)

STREATOR, Ill., April 17.—Following a wild night during which Chicago detectives and state troopers were fired upon by two automobile loads of gangsters equipped with machine guns, Fred J. Blumer, Monroe, Wis., brewer of near beer, kidnaped and held for $150,000 ransom eight days ago, was found today on the main street of Wenona, Ill., sixteen miles west of here.

The brewer ,whose disappearance had started a frantic and widespread search, was found by his brother, Jacob, of Chicago, who early this morning received a telephone call at the Streator Hotel, where he was staying, instructing him to be in Wenona at nine a. m. There he found his brother sitting in an automobile.

Kidnapers Given Money

A possibility that the ransom was paid was seen in the fact that Jacob Blumer handed a package to three men who were sitting in the automobile with his brother. What the package contained was not divulged. The kidnapers originally asked for $150,000, but later scaled their demand down to $50,000.

The brewer was believed to have been released scarcely an hour after Police Lieutenant William Cusack of Chicago and the state troopers had engaged in a battle with gangsters. The authorities believed they

Several Steel-Jacketed Bullets Caused Death, Examining Doctor Asserts

(International News Service)

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., April 17.—Investigation into the "ride" murder of Isaac Hamilton, 49-year-old barber, believed lured to his death by the false promise of extra work, today centered on the identity of a man who called casually at Hamilton's shop Wednesday and arranged for a "home visit" by the barber to trim the coiffures of two women.

A verdict of "death at the hands of some person or persons unknown" was returned last night following an inquest by Dr. Ira. J. Bowser, Jefferson County Coroner, at which Dr. F. A. Lorenzo who collaborated with the coroner in a post mortem examination of Hamilton's body was the only witness.

Dr. Lorenzo testified that Hamil-

Council Delays Taking Action

Library Trustees Would Include Property In Post Office Site Plan

Council said in session at the City building they would not take any action until Monday on the proposal of the New Castle Free Library trustees to include the library in a deal relative to the proposed postoffice for New Castle. Council will take action Monday, it was intimated. It will be necessary, it was pointed out to put the local library up for bid.

The council received the recommendation from trustees through a letter from Secretary Rebecca E. Royce, which said the trustees recommended that council join with property-owners adjacent to the site of the library in submitting a proposal to the government in regard to a postoffice site, upon the condition that the present postoffice site with building be exchanged for the present library site without any consideration.

Councilman Burns said he had been informed that to remodel the postoffice would cost practically as much as a new building. The solicitor told council the only legal way by which the city could dispose of the site would be to put up the city property at bid.

Eva Houk, Croton avenue, who underwent a serious appendicitis operation in the New Castle hospital, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home.

If they do not wish to use the crops grown, they are asked to give them to the committee to be canned in the fall, when it is hoped to have a big canning day.

The home economics department of State college will be asked to assist and to supervise the canning work, when the various articles of food grown by local residents will be canned and stored away to be given out next winter.

Mrs. Eckenroad stated that during the war, everyone mobilized to win the war, and urges that all patriotic citizens mobilize at the present time to help out in the serious unemployment situation now existing. She feels that the matter should be made one of conscience.

Proposed Paving In Meyer Aired

Proponents And Opponents Meet With Council And State Views On Work

Spokesmen and about two dozen property owners today appeared in city council chambers, municipal building to state their attitude relative to the proposed paving of Meyer avenue between Carlisle street and Highland avenue. After listening to the opinions council maintained a discreet silence but within the next week will decide to pave or not to pave.

Roy Mercer, attorney for the paving proponents, stated the history of the various petitions presented over a course of three years. He said it would be less expensive to pave now than in the future. He concluded his argument by stating that the opposition had only 1230 feet as against 2,750.

Attorney W. J. Baer said that Mercer had put his case very well but maintained numerous people would not be able to bear the expenditure at this time. He stated, however, that now is the time for paving for those who can bear the expense. He recited how dust injured properties.

Attorney Akens maintained that council was not obliged to order paving because a majority of foot frontage desired it. He said solons could use their discretion. He claimed council could "risk their own" but should not risk the properties of ST. LOUIS, April 17—Alfred Suraud, 35 year old chauffeur, was under a first-degree murder indictment today, returned by the grand jury here, in the slaying of Walter Shaw, 23 year old, of Bradford, Pa., an investigator for the Pennsylvania Oil company.

GIRL COMPANION AND OFFICER SHOT

(International News Service)

BOWLING GREEN, O., April 17.—"Bill, the killer," acquitted fratricide, wanted for his daring law-breaking activities by police in several states, was slain in a brief gun battle with police here, but not before his girl companion and a police officer sustained wounds which hospital attendants today pronounced "serious".

The 25-year old gunman was killed just as he had fired a single shot from his ever-ready revolver. Police Chief Carl Galliher and Patrolman Ralph Castner, the latter wounded by a shot from the desperado's companion, attempted to halt the two gunmen on the outskirts of the city's business section.

Thug Identified

The dead thug, identified by police as Willis Miller, was credited with an extensive record of penitentiary and police escapes. A girl companion, who gave her name as Beulah Baird, 20, of Kansas City, was wounded in the head by a bullet from the police fire. Another girl, said to be her sister, was captured by police, while the fourth member of the gang, who aided Miller in the gun-battle, escaped by fleeing between two houses and driving off in an automobile.

The quartet had aroused suspicions of police while on a shopping tour here. Miller was said to have flashed bills of large denomination

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 17—Grass fires numbered an airplane among its victims today. Sparks from a grass blaze ignited a barn, four small buildings, destroying them and an airplane on the Frank Swaney farm near the East Liverpool airport. Loss was $7,000, it was estimated.

It was long and fat, with a gaping mouth, and scales that gleamed in the sun, silver and gray with a touch of brown, and oh how that baby could run. But it swallowed the hook and it ate the line, and finally got away, this fish that my friend nearly caught he says, it's just fifty eight today.

Clare Stockman, Champ Fisherman

Catches 20 Trout On Opening Day In Little Neshannock

OTHER PERSONS REPORT CATCHES

Wayne Sines' reign as champion fisherman for the first day of the trout season was quite brief as a belated report received stated that H. Clare Stockman, assistant chief of the fire department caught 20 trout Wednesday in the Little Neshannock. Sines had caught 17 in the Slippery Rock, hence the passing of the title to Stockman.

All of the trout caught by Stockman were taken on flies, a Black Gnat and a Royal Coachman. In size they ranged from 10 to 12 inches. "Several times I got two on one cast and one on each cast," said Stockman.

The first day's champion, in number of trout caught, said that he does not agree with the veteran fisherman who operated that when trout begin jumping or playing around that it is time for the fisherman to go home.

"The fly fisherman often waits for a trout to jump to see where they are feeding as most of their food is flies and bugs that float on the surface" the assistant chief of the fire department explained.

Eddie Fritz Jr., travelled to the Slippery Rock yesterday evening and caught a trout 11 inches long. The trout was taken near the Y. M. C. A. camp where the boys who attended camp last summer caught many bass.

Mrs. A. Liversage of 502 North Liberty street apparently is the holder of the women's trout fishing title so far as she caught 12 in Taylor Run on the opening day. They ranged in size from seven to nine inches.

Today's rainfaill was exactly what the trout fishermen, so some of them reported, had been waiting for. If it makes the water murky and the weather warms another army of fishermen will journey to the various streams Saturday.

Attorney W. J. Baer caught eight in the Little Neshannock yesterday according to a report received. The trout that were caught by the lawyer ranged in size about eight inches.

Clever Chinese Work Free Trip To China

(International News Service)

EL CENTRO, Calif., April 17.—Immigration officials here were confronted with a new racket perpetrated by Chinese who have illegally entered the United States from Lower California. Recent arrest of nine Chinese within a week caused federal authorities to seek a plan to solve the problem.

Immigration officers said they believed the orientals entered the United States from Mexico intending to be captured and deported to China at the government's expense. Economic depression in Lower California has forced the Chinese to seek employment elsewhere.

Sixty orientals were in jail here pending trial in Federal District Court. Even if it were possible to return them to Mexico the Mexican government would not allow it.

At present federal authorities have no alternative but to let the law take its course and send the Chinese back to their native land free of charge.

Nerviest Thief Gets New Tire

(International News Service)

DANVILLE, Pa., April 17—The "world's coolest thief" is ahead one tire and a local garage owner from whom he purloined it is content with his loss.

The bearer of the title was awarded it by G. R. Cruze, proprietor of the garage. Cruze noticed a youth repairing a punctured tire on the Northumberland road. A few minutes later the stranger drove into Cruze's garage, removed his punctured tire, took a spare tire from another car, put it on his own machine and drove off.

Mechanics did not notice the "exchange" until the stranger left. They hurried to Cruze with his car license number.

"Let him go," said the garage man. "It's worth the loss of a tire to learn there's a thief with that much nerve in the world."

You're the JUDGE

Mrs. Sophie Clutts had been egging on her husband to go into business for himself for some time. At last he did. But soon the little pile of money they had was sunk deep in the business and more was needed. Mrs. Clutts, therefore, approached John Pincksey to borrow some money for the use of her husband in the business. At the time Mrs. Clutts approached Mr. Pincksey she had title by deed from her father for his homestead, of which he held a life lease from her. Pincksey was satisfied and made the loan and the money went into the business.

But just about this time there began a whole series of misfortunes for Mrs. Clutts. First her husband died. Then her father, and a little while later her mother died, and so she found herself sole owner of her father's property. All this time Pincksey had been waiting patiently for the payment of his debt. Now, however, Mrs. Clutts promised to pay it, but time went on and she did not pay it, and eventually she also died. Whereupon Pincksey, feeling that his money must not be lost, filed suit against the administrator of her estate.

ton's death was caused by several .32 calibre steel-jacketed bullets, three of which were fired into the victim's head at close range.

A dearth of clues confronted investigators today. Hamilton's body, still warm, was found two miles north of Punxsutawney about 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night. Persons living nearby reported hearing seven shots fired and the roar of an automobile leaving the scene.

Police have learned that earlier in the day a man visited Hamilton's shop and asked him to trim the hair of two women at their homes. L. J. Hanford, of Punxsutawney, reported seeing the barber, equipped with his barber case, leave his shop about 7:45 o'clock Wednesday night.

on the various stores which they visited.

Galliher and Castner followed the men as they left the busy business section for their car parked some distance away. Perceiving that police were on their trail, the quartet spread out in fan shape, Galliher reported, and the gunmen opened fire.

Police Answer Fire

Miller fell dead, his body riddled with three bullets, as the two police answered his offensive with a volley from their service revolvers. Castner, wounded in his first experience under gunfire, continued to pump away at the two gunmen after he slumped to the ground with a bullet wound in his abdomen.

Miller was acquitted in 1925 by the Beaver county courts on a charge of slaying his brother, Joseph, dispatched quoted District Attorney J. B. McGoun as reporting. The brother was shot to death in a quarrel over a young woman in a house near the Ohio border line, it was reported.

Patrolman Castner received seven bullet wounds in the abdomen, hospital attaches, reported, after operating on the officer.

Dispute On Identity

BOWLING GREEN, O., April 17.—Authorities disagreed here today in their attempt to identify a bandit suspect who was shot and killed in a running gun fight with police on a downtown street late yesterday.

From finger prints of the dead man county officials believed him to be "Billy the Killer" Miller of Beaver county, Pa., hunted in a dozen middlewestern cities for various crimes, including the slaying of his brother, Joseph Miller, at Beaver, Pa., in 1925.

Detective Joseph Galloway of Toledo, however, declared today that the man who was shot by Chief of Police Galliher when he and a companion, and two girls resisted arrest was a former Ironton, O., boy and not "Billy the Killer".

The detective also asserted that the two girls arrested after the shooting are not from Kansas City, Mo., as they say, but from Lakeside, Mich.

The girls declare they are Beulah Baird, 21, and Rose Baird, 20, of 2402 East Thirtieth street, Kansas City, and that a second, who escaped, is Charles Arthur Floyd, 25, wanted for murder in Kansas City.

Police sought to arrest them because they believed the men to be bandits. Police said they "threw money way".

The dead gunman first was reported to be Clarence Saunders, alias Bill Thompson, of St. Louis, and his companion's name was said to be Ted Shea, alias Arthur King, of St. Louis.

GREAT VALUE OF MOON'S MONTHLY PHASES

The moon in measuring off approximately the calendar months of the year in its orbital periods around our world from new moon back to new moon again, displays changing signs or phases of the utmost practical value to the race of man: When the moon's journey from the sun is a week old, the moon is a half-moon; when two weeks old, the moon is full moon; when three weeks old, the moon is a half-moon again, though it is the opposite half that is illuminated from that at one week. When four weeks of the moon's orbit have expired, the moon is back to new moon again. The moon's phases also suggest the week.

CHILD HEALTH DAY

ONE of man's redeeming virtues is his love of little children. His wrath turns quickest against those who torture or neglect the defenseless young. This sentiment runs strong in the breast of President Hoover, whose proclamation calling upon the nation to observe National Child Health Day on May 1 was more than a public duty perfunctorily performed.

The chief executive, like many others, looks upon deformed, crippled, weak and undernourished children as a national disgrace, because usually these cases are preventable. He looks forward to the time when they will have been reduced to but a fraction of their present number.

There is a challenge to the American people and their governmental agencies in statistics showing 6,000,000 undernourished, 382,000 tubercular, 300,000 crippled, 50,00 partially blind, 14,000 blind, 342,000 deaf, 200,000 delinquent, 500,000 dependent and 450,000 mentally defective children in the United States. This challenge is made still more commanding by 1,000,000 children with diseased hearts and 1,060,858 under 16 years of age gainfully employed.

National Child Health Day is part of a movement to correct these appalling conditions. It concentrates public attention on the pitiful plight of thousands of children as well as upon the inescapable fact that a healthy nation depends upon a healthy race of children.

KING HOPES TO RETURN

Spain has had growing pains. Almost over night it has changed from a country of gay bull fighters and picturesque dancing senoritas to a country of modern cities, from an agricultural to an industrial land. Now she has come into her political maturity by discarding the old outworn monarchical form of government for the more modern republican form.

The old Spain was more or less content with a king. The new Spain found life under an absolute monarchy stifling and intolerable. King Alfonso, the last of the Bourbons was more benevolent than other members of that ruling family, but his benevolence and progressiveness—he is a great admirer of the United States and the American people—could not make up for the fatal defects of the system of which he was a part.

Alfonso must have seen the inevitable. He has long talked of visiting the United States, something he probably never would have done while on the throne. And he was too shrewd to fight the inevitable to the end. It was he, not the republicans, who made the Spanish revolution a bloodless one. When he permitted the popular election which resulted in his withdrawal, he probably was looking ahead to the possible collapse of the young republic, through maladministration by corrupt and power-drunk politicians, and his recall to rule. Spain's exiled king was no figurehead, and as a shrewd politician probably had no superior in that country.

GAME PRESERVATION

In its promotion of game preservation the senate committee on wild life resources compares the hosts of golfers and other sports enthusiasts with the much larger hosts of sportsmen who follow the streams and roam the forests.

Love of the great open spaces, the canyons, likes, forests and streams is an American heritage. Americans come as naturally by it as by their inherent pioneering spirit. But the wilderness loses much of its charm, whether for hunter, fisherman or nature lover, when it loses its wild life.

This committee, state game commissions, sportsman's organizations, corporations and individuals are co-operating in the restoration of more of this charm and in preventing further loss with some measure of success. Satisfactory progress is being made in the work of saving animals threatened with extinction and in the work of propagating game and fish for those who carry the rod and gun, but the goal is still far away.

There is doubt, however, whether the federal and state governments are appropriating enough to meet all needs. Their appropriations total only $13,000,000, which pales into insignificance when contrasted with $90,000,000 spent for hunting and fishing equipment and $650,000,000 for outdoor recreation accessories. The nation can safely and profitably encourage such an industry, especially since it is in the interest of the mental and physical health of the masses.

NO LACK OF LEADERS

Nicholas Murray Butler deplores the lack of leadership in present day life. Isn't it possible that this country, at least, is affected more from an excess of leadership rather than from the lack of it? Distinguished leadership may be impossible these days because we have so many leaders. It is conceivable that an Andrew Jackson, a Clay, a Jefferson, a Hamilton or a Webster would not stand out conspicuously in this day and age. Leaders cannot lead leaders. The rank and file has grown thin and inconspicuous because of constant promotion.

The demands of the times have forced leaders into other lines of service. It has been estimated that Rembrandt painted between seven and eight hundred canvasses. "Of these there are ten thousand in America," one critic has said. That means that many imitators of the great artist have so thoroughly mastered his technique that their copies are sold easily for the originals. Their leadership awaits only a demand for something besides counterfeits.

The present day tendency to minimize ability, skill and technique is not confined exclusively to the uninformed. It is exhibited in schools, through periodicals that cater to intellectuals, from forum and pulpit.

Only in great crises, national upheavals over internal problems, or war times, can leaders lead. Even for those who through chance or fortune have been placed in positions where leadership is the role there is difficulty. Differing opinions among many leaders do not result in a consolidated effort to attain an end. Every leader is traveling a different route to reach the destination.

That situation confronts President Hoover. It faces Governor Roosevelt, our own Senator Norris and our imperious Governor Bryan. Other leaders stand in the way. The country is full of leaders. To deplore a shortage that does not exist is a waste of time, words and effort. What the world, this country, this state, this city, needs is rank and file. The leaders are waiting for followers.—The Lincoln State Journal.

Colds Are Catching
So Are Emotions
I Don't Catch Colds, I Do Catch Gloom

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I'm one of those lucky people who don't catch colds. People sneeze and snuffle all around me and complain about their colds, but I dare their germs to do their worst. They can't tag me, I've said "King's X" and I'm "safe". . . . Year in and year out, in spring and autumn and winter, in rain and fog and blowy weather, I go my way and don't catch other people's colds.

I'm immune to those germs. They attack me, of course, but my resistance is good and I throw them off. I'm lucky.

But not in every way. I may not catch the other fellow's Germs, but I catch his Glooms.

* * *

I walk down the street feeling cheerful enough and I meet a friend and ask him how he is. He tells me and it's a hard luck tale. I can't help feeling sorry for him. Nobody could help it. He's had all the Bad Breaks a man could get and still survive. I begin to get gloomy. He's so heartsick and despondent about the future that I take part of his trouble along with me. Who wouldn't?

Three or four men "strike me for a dime"—or maybe it's a quarter. One of them insists on telling me his story. . . . It's a tough one. . . . I hear that a friend of mine has lost his job, and hasn't found another one yet. . . . A man I knew in school has killed himself. . . . I hear about a piece of graft, a mean bit of knavery, the great success of a worthless hypocrite. . . . The load of gloom gets heavier and heavier.

* * *

Who am I to be cheerful when other people are miserable? Why should I be immune to their grief? "Where do I get that stuff?" Why should I smile when you are suffering? I ought to be ashamed of myself. . . . But how can I help it? Misery loves company, you say, but how can any misery make your misery more bearable? It can't, but my heart has no right to be happy when yours is so heavy. You do not say that in so many words, but I feel it and I cannot deny it.

Your glomo is catching. My resistance breaks down. I take your gloom and pass it on. . . . It's worse than any cold. . . . And then I run across a man who has had more bad luck than all the rest of them put together, but I can't get him to talk about it. He's cheerful, he's hopeful, he doesn't sob about life. He respects it and he trusts it and believes in it. And his faith and strength are as contagious to me as those germs of gloom I've been picking up all day.

I begin to feel better already. I'm convalescent. The sun seems brighter. People don't look so sad. And I'm more grateful than I can say, to that sturdy fellow who refuses to take his troubles lying down.

"DEAD" WOMAN REVIVES AFTER OBITUARY APPEARS

Loud sobs of a daughter revived a 103 year old Lima (O.) woman last week, two days after she was reported dead and after death notices had been placed in newspapers. The woman, Mrs. Lorena Wolfe, had been in a coma two days when she was pronounced dead. When a daughter, Mrs. May Moore, of Toledo entered the room and cried aloud the aged woman opened her eyes and spoke. She survived for several days, although in a coma most of the time.

PUBLISHER'S ONE LINE OBIT TOLD IN HALF-COLUMN

A few years ago, the founder of the Stoughton (Wis.) Courier-Hub, shortly before his retirment from active service, was talking to Alvin Olson, now managing editor, about the news stories in the paper.

"This i' an awful sheet," he said and his finger went down column after column pointing out defects. When he came to the obituary notices, he said:

"Some day, young fellow, I'm going to shuffle off, and when I do, I don't want to find you writing any of this nonsense about me." Just one line, the publisher said, was all he wanted.

He dictated it and exacted a promise from the newspaperman that his wishes would be regarded.

Recently the publisher died. At the end of half a column telling of the above circumstances, the publisher's one-line obituary was printed. It read:

Bingham Proposal Declared Public Warning On Taxation

Senator's Suggestion That Citizens More Generally Bear Burden Of Income Levy Focuses Attention On Excessive Appropriations

The country generally enters into the spirit of the proposal from Senator Bingham of Connecticut that, on account of excessive appropriations by congress, citizens generally be compelled to meet the demands of government through wider income tax levies and lowering of existing exemptions. Very little is expected to be done in the direction of increased taxation, but the matter is accepted as a warning.

"His idea that the 'something for nothing' delusion is the propelling force behind the constant cry for more and bigger government appropriations probably is not far from the truth," thinks the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE. The LINCOLN NEBRASKA STATE JOURNAL welcomes "a pin prick to the consciences of the various members of congress who have time now to think over the events of the last session." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS advises that "this would be a more carefully conducted country if John Voter had at least to buy an admission ticket to impress him that he's at the show."

"The order everywhere, except in government," according to the MANCHESTER LEADER, "has been to keep expenses down, and every additional tax load that appropriating bodies place upon the taxpayers makes the return to prosperous business conditions just so much slower in arriving. * * * It is well to have a word of warning like that of Senator Bingham." The TEXARKANA GAZETTE agrees that the principal trouble is that "so many persons demand expenditures but insist that someone else pay the bulk of the taxes."

"Senator Bingham is right in his idea that if more people had to pay income taxes, there would be less popular approval of extravagant expenditures of federal funds," declares the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, while the CHATTANOOGA TIMES lauds the senator because he "has had the commendable courage to call the attention of the country to the fact that it must pay for its government, and to do so in a manner that brings the matter home to the people generally." The CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER advises that, "in view of the treasury situation and the likelihood that federal expenses next year cannot be reduced, it would be well for congress to give consideration to Senator Binghams' proposal and to possible changes in methods of administration and collection that will reduce their cost."

Opposition to the thought is voiced by the HARTFORD TIMES, with the statement: "It is perhaps true that if there were less exemption and more taxpaying it would be easier for watch dogs of the treasury in congress to keep down appropriations and insist upon stricter economy in the government's expenditures. But the great majority of people will not approve of having their pocketbooks mulcted on that account. A congress that would dare to increase the taxes next winter in line with the Bingham plan must expect to invite a slaughtering rebuke at the polls." The SAVANNAH MORNING NEWS feels that "the Bingham proposal, after all, is almost wholly academic" and that "there is going to be no general application, without exemptions, of the income tax."

"Neither party," in the opinion of the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "will wish to push the matter of an increase in the next congress, nor wish to share the responsibility in any way. They are looking to the next campaign." The Rochester paper adds that "the country may be back to normalcy by 1932, in which case tax reduction might replace discussion of an increase." The LOWELL EVENING LEADER is convinced that, "difficult as it is to arouse the individual citizen to a realization of his own stake in public expenditures, the administration is right in its opinion that any general increase in taxation would delay the recovery of business and prolong the unemployment problem."

In defense of those who have been instrumental in providing for increased expenditures, the PASADENA STAR-NEWS argues: "Public officials in many cases cannot be blamed for increased taxes. They do not originate the plans and projects for excessive expenditure from the public treasury. They are the victims of the unwise and insistent demands of their constituents." Of the persons behind the demands, the HAVERHILL GAZETTE states: "There isn't an article they buy or a transaction that they take part in, in which some of the money that they pay is not used for taxes. If all thoroughly understood this fact, governmental extravagance might be less."

"The unorganized masses," maintains the CHARLOTTE (S.C.) EVENING POST, "have little to say about what laws shall or shall not be passed. Blocs, groups, lobbies, leagues, organizations of all kinds speak through their representatives to congress, and congress acts accordingly. If Senator Bingham found a way to raise the deficit by taxing these organizations in proportion to their lobbying efforts, the problem would be solved." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD charges that "they clamor to have the tax shifted to other shoulders"; that "they do that in the face of the fact that such shifting, when it does take place, more often than not, results not actually in a shift but simply turns out to be more taxes." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE however, feels that "warnings to look out for taxes, like warnings to look out for dyspepsia or a cold in the head, are seldom heeded before it is too late." As to the next congress, the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC points to the prospect that, "with the general election just around the corner few will be willing to accept the responsibility of voting for measures that would make tax increase inevitable."

"Whether, all things considered," advises the BALTIMORE SUN, "it is desirable to charge, through the income tax, a much more general tuition fee for education in American government, is a question of which there is no attempt to make a positive disposition at the moment. The fact remains, however, that there is a great deal to be said for a broader base for federal income taxation." The SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE concludes that the senator's "striking statement may make intelligent citizens ponder the subject"; the PORT HURON TIMES-HERALD that "it seems to be his idea that the average citizen needs to be given a jar"; the LYNCHBURG NEWS that "people in the mass are not greatly interested when direct taxes are paid by the few and indirect taxes are colected painlessly"; the WALLA WALLA BULLETIN that "eventually there will be some such method of bringing home to every person the enormous increase"; and the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL that "Senator Bingham performs a public service."

"There is, of course," according to the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "a just middle ground between the theory that everyone should be taxed and the idea that the cost of maintaining government can be placed upon the few 'very rich' alone. It is most important, however, for every citizen to recognize that, whether directly assessed or not, he bears a share of the burden of taxation, and is personally interested in holding public officials to a strict responsibility. Otherwise, he soon would find himself under rulers who would make his unrealized taxation very much heavier than any direct tax to which he could be subject."

"Why do they call it the Chrysler Building, mother?"

The parent, grasping her inquisitive little son's hand firmly replied: "Because it is a sort of a monument to a wonderful man; a very talented man. Some day, if you're a good boy, I'll take you to see him."

"What does he do, mother?"

"He's a great fiddler, Bobbie," answered the informed parent.

"Will you please tell me," said a member to the teacher, "how far in actual miles Dan is from Beersheba? All my life I have heard the familiar phrase 'from Dan to Beersheba,' but I have never known the distance."

Before the answer could be given, another member arose in the back of the room and inquired: "Do I understand that Dan and Beersheba are the names of places?"

"Yes."

"That is one on me. I have always thought they were husband and wife, like Sodom and Gomorrah."

Samuels Uses Council's Plea

If Cheap For People, Cheap For City Is Samuels' Argument

Roy Samuels of Fairmont avenue today used a councilmanic argument in putting a request that the intersection of Fairmont avenue and Carlisle street be paved when the city paves Fairmont avenue, residents of which have agreed, it was reported in council today to have a cartway of 28 feet.

Samuels stated that he understood that when the petition was circulated the avenue would be paved to the west side of Carlisle street.

He said that stakes set by the engineer for the city had been placed on the eastern corner of Fairmont avenue and Carlisle.

Samuels told solons that Carlisle street where it drops off Fairmont is in need of a fill.

One of the councilmen remarked "Why that would cost $1,000 to pave the intersection."

"It is as cheap now as ever," replied Samuels.

Council has pointed out consistently that property owners will find it cheaper to pave now than in the future and Samuels pointed this out vividly to the proporents of the statement.

The request was referred to Councilman Treser and City Engineer Miller.

Mercer-New Wilmington Road To Cost $40,000 Per Mile —Work Progressing

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., April 17.—County commissioners of Mercer county and state engineers have reached a decision on the new Mercer-New Wilmington road. The roadway is important to New Castle residents because it will connect with that city. Seven more miles of concrete roadway, 18 feet wide, will be constructed. A mile and a quarter has already been constructed.

It is estimated the road will cost $40,000 per mile. Mercer will pay all the cost over $30,000 and the state and federal governments will pay the rest.

DANGEROUS LIFE PERIOD

Matrimony's most dangerous period is about the twenty-fifth year, declares a German expert, who adds that many of the belated marriage tragedies occur because husband or wife becomes too devoted to the children and neglect the other partner.

To take that gray look out of your wash

BY MARY LEE WORK

An Easier Way To Wash Clothes —And Do Various Other Hard Jobs in Half the Time

Here's a new method of washing clothes that takes the drudgery out of washday. Everywhere you go, women are using it because it makes living so much easier—so much more worth while.

With it, you do any kind of washing—from the stoutest linens to delicately-colored children's clothes; costly lingerie—in half the time it takes you to do it now—or less.

And—you banish and avoid entirely streaks, spots, that ugly gray look women complain of. And fade of any kind.

In careful laboratory tests a man's blue shirt for instance, was washed 75 times without appreciable fade. This is probably twice the washing the average shirt gets before it is worn out.

How To Do It

You get a package of a preparation called Climalene at any grocery store for a dime. Put 2 tablespoonfuls in a washtub of water. Use the same kind of soap you ordinarily do. But use only ¼ the amount you now use. That is all. Then see for yourself the amazing results.

Climalene acts by making water—whether it is hard or medium hard—soft as rain water.

For that reason you use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. And thus end "soap-eat" and fade of fine things.

Then, due to mildly cleansing properties of its own, it dissolves grime and dirt instantly, thus cutting washing time in half—either in the dishpan or washtub.

Shop With The Time Saved

Consider what you can do with the time you save. Thousands of women shop, go to the movies, enjoy life with the time they save this way. Do the things you now think only a woman with servants can do.

And have hands caressingly smooth and lovely. For Climalene acts as a beautifying agent to the hands.

Marvelous For Dishes, Too

You use Climalene too, to wash dishes in half the time and have them shine and sparkle marvelously—just as they do in shop windows.

Use too, to clean silver, to remove "bathtub ring", to make scrubbing, scouring, cleaning of all sorts, far simpler and quicker. Full directions come with every package. Try it. Find out what it can do for you.

Shorter Hours For Workers In State Indicated

Department Of Labor And Industry Issues Wage Bulletin

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Gradual tendency toward a shorter working week in industry throughout Pennsylvania is indicated in a special bulletin just issued by direction of Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry. It gives detailed information concerning wage rates and hours of labor established by agreement between employers and labor organizations in twenty-four cities of the State. These comprise 1695 crafts in fifteen trade groups.

Fifty-six per cent increase in the general wage average is shown in the ten years between 1919 and 1929. The rise in union wages generally has been continuous since 1919 except for slight recessions in 1922 and 1928. The collective hourly wage rate for 1919 was $0.643 as compared with an hourly rate of $1.001 in 1929. Between 1928 and 1929, the largest increase in wages occurred in the theatrical trades where the general average hourly rate rose from $0.99 in 1928 to $1.10 in 1929. Other substantial wage increases were shown for chauffeurs, teamsters and drivers, freight handlers, linemen, and in the metal trades.

Of the 1000 schedules obtained 1929 in which a definite schedule of hours of work per day is specified, 86.7 per cent. called for a working day of eight hours or less. 10.7 per cent specified a day of eight to nine hours, and 2.6 per cent. called for a day of nine to ten hours. No union schedule indicated a working day of more than ten hours. More than 95 per cent. of the schedules for building trades and newspaper trades stipulated an eight-hour day. More than 50 per cent. of the schedules for all trades stipulated a Saturday half-holiday the year around. In forty instances a five-day week was specified. thirty-two of them in building trades, five in the metal trades and three in book and job printing.

Of 1209 schedules in 1929 which gave definite information as to the number of hours worked per week, 44.8 per cent, specified a working week of forty-four hours or less, 30.8 per cent. specified 44 to 48 hours, 18.2 per cent. specified 48 to 54 hours, and 6.2 per cent, indicated hours in excess of 54 per week.

Colorado May Tax 360,000 Indian Acres

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 17.—The possibility that Colorado may receive taxes from 360,000 acres of land at present tax free is seen in the recent action of the state tax commission in making an appraisal of Ute Indian lands in the southwestern part of the state.

The commission, acting on a request of United States Senator Frederick Steifer of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Indian committee, will appraise the lands during the summer.

Indian lands and other government holdings have long been a sore spot in the tax system of western states. While Indian holdings in Colorado are smaller than in many other states an appraisal of their value is said to be necessary before the federal government can work out an equitable distribution of the cost of carrying on the governmental activities in western states.

Information Booths Sure Sign Of Spring

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 17.—The local citizenry scoffed at the robins they saw percher in the trees and burst into guffaws when they saw the crocus push its head up through the earth. They weren't going to be fooled by these phenomena into thinking Spring had come.

But when the two information booths for motorists opened here, the skeptical citizens realized that spring indeed had come. The opening date for the booths one of which is located in Harvard Square on the route to Arlington and Lexington, and the other located on Memorial Drive, near Harvard bridge, is the earliest date upon which the booths have been opened since the establishment of this service two years ago.

Last year, thousands of visitors to the tercentenary celebration were served by these booths.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Bo'Broadway

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Prof. Einstein got back home the other day and told reporters he didn't understand America.

That sort o' evens things up a bit.

CEREBRAL SHRINKAGE

Henri Bernstein, eminent French dramatist, arrived in New York last week voicing the belief that in a few years the legitimate stage will be out-modeled and the movie enthroned supreme.

And right on top of that Teddy (Kid) Dreiser, the great backhand wolloper of literachoor, ups an' says that motion pictures "are making the American mind smaller than it is, if that is possible."

As Ring Lardner used to say, "It's things like them that leave a scar."

Dr. Esther Loring Richards, associate professor of psychiatry at Johns Hopkins university, says:

"As it stands, the 1th amendment not only is psychologically unsound, but intellectually dishonest in enactment and enforcement, and so, inevitably is doing harm where good was sought in vain—as it always will be when the means employed involved intellectual dishonesty and creates a degree of irritation, resistance and unrest which impose additional strain and stress on the nerves and conduct of the people."

Too bad the Doc. didn't get the professor of rhetoric at the university to express that thought for her. She's valid, but involved.

ESTHETIC TAMMANY

Tammany Hall is always interesting.

The Organization Horticulturist who has charge of the buds and blooms in City Hall park, has planted purple pansies and perunias underneath Mayor Walker's office window.

• • •

OH, GODIVA!

John Sumner, who suppresses vice in New York as a profession and who, therefore, is 99 44-100 per cent pure—pure what? (Dunt esk!)—called in some cops a day or two ago and caused the arrest of a few of the female members of the "Ada Onion, of Bermuda" cast, one of the dizziest of 42nd street burleycues.

It took the girls some minutes to remove the bead or two they wore and get into their street clothes; and the cops waited outside the dressing room doors while they dressed.

Later, in court, one of the girls complained that, waiting outside her dressing room door, the cop had insisted on "peeking".

A burley-cue quene, with a mean disposition, has a lot of ways of showing it.

CHANGED DESTINATION

A New York toothpaste manufacturer is head of a corporation that is buying up a string of English country inns and public houses. They are being renovated and will be operated under American management to cater to automobile tourists who want something better than the type of wayside inn or "pub" now available.

The corporation has already acquired 63 small inns within a radius of 150 miles of London. The old landlords are being retained for the same reason that there was an organ in Maggie Murphy's home—that is, "to give the house a tone." But a dozen or more American district managers will be retained, to see that the bloomin' "lymies" step on it.

When the deal is completed there will be one of these new style American "pubs" every 25 miles on the main roads from London.

They used to say that when good Americans died they went to Paris. That'll be changed, pretty soon, to Lunnon.

• • •

CANYOUSWAGIN?

Every time I hear of a college professor breaking into print, I shiver.

One of them, Old Doc Byron, suggested that the profession of "gigolo" might some day be recognized in America.

Immediately, numerous letters of inquiry found their way to the Doc's study, among them, one from a man who apparently got the erroneous impression that the establishment of a "gigolo" department was contemplated in the Doc's university, and saying that he "wanted to take a course."

BY-THE-WAY

How old is Tammany Hall, anyway?

The ancient Chinese had a proverb: "He who rides a tiger, dare not dismount."

TO PLAY SHAKESPEARE

WEIMAR, April 17.—The Shakespeare Society will hold its annual meeting in Weimar on April 23. Professor Schoeffler of Cologne, will deliver an address on "The English Reformation," the amateur dramatic association of Goettingen students will present Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors," and the National Theater will give "Othello" in a new setting. The Goethe Society will hold its regular meeting in Weimar, in the week following Whitsuntide.

The Star Spangled Banner.

When and by whom was "The Star-Spangled Banner" written?

Francis Scott Key, a lawyer, wrote the words of the famous song the morning after the bombardment of Fort McHenry, in 1814. Cologne Youth Inn Has 1,200 Beds

(International News Service)

COLOGNE, Germany, April 17.—The Cologne "Jugendherberge," one of the largest and most modern youth inns in Germany, has become so popular with young hikers that it has been found necessary to add 500 beds in an adjoining building to the 610 already provided, making a total of 1,200.

In the three years since it was opened this Jugendherberge has accommodated 161,500 wanderers.

The number of guests from abroad rose from 3,863 in 1929 to 5,932 in 1930, of whom 1,976 came from England, which is now also beginning to establish similar inns along German lines.

America, Australia, India and Palestina were also represented among the foreign visitors. The Cologne inn can feed 1,200 guests a day.

Americanism: Haggling over a ten cent overcharge in the grocery bill: paying a dollar a bottle for night club ginger ale without protest.

State Deputy Guest Of P. H. C.

M. M. Henlein Of Erie Speaks Before Local Circle Members

Previous to the business session held by New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle, on Wednesday night the tureen dinner for the members and friends was another enjoyable event of fine appointments with an excellent menu served by the social committee of the circle.

Added to the pleasure of the hour as special guests was the presence of State Deputy M. M. Henlein and his wife of Erie, and it goes upon record that Deputy Henlein is not found wanting when it comes to original wit and a good story teller. One of the very best orators in the field and personality our distinguished visitor at the close of the business session gave the circle one of his impressive addresses for which he is noted.

Many items of interest were disposed of on Wednesday night followed with the third dance of the series well attended.

The closing feature was the old time cake walk, in which all of the members and their friends heartily joined while Mrs. Robt. Boyd walked off with the prize, a big cake "like your mother used to make."

The Junior Circle will hold its regular session on Wednesday April 22nd at 6:30 o'clock followed with the usual card party held by the local circle.

Big Run Pool Being Planned

Expect Dam To Be Reconstructed Again This Season

SCORES ENJOYED POOL LAST SUMMER

Big Run dam located near Pennsylvania avenue, which proved the mecca for hundreds of children daily last summer for swimming may again this season attract the attention of the kiddies of the South Side this summer. Whether the South Side Merchants will supply adequaute funds to repair the dam, and get it into condition for the swimming season is not known as yet.

Big Run dam was discovered last season by a group of energetic youth who thought of an idea that if a dam was constructed swimming could be enjoyed. Filling bags and other containers with rocks and dirt the youths finally constructed a strong dam after nearly one months work. The bottom of the swimming hole was cleaned so as to protect the kiddies. Then the pool was all set.

Daily throughout the day, the dam was full of kiddies of all sizes, enjoying themselves. A home made diving board was another feature. It was estimated that approximately 300 or more children attended daily. The pool is located near Pennsylvania avenue.

Some talk is going on among the merchants of the South Side of arranging the place into a favorable swimming pool.

Groundhogs Are Always Legal Prey

HARRISBURG, April 15--Groundhogs are not protected and may be killed at any time by landowners and licensed hunters. Game Commission officials today announced.

Each spring, officials said, the commission receives a large number of queries concerning the condition under which groundhogs may be killed.

Another popular inquiry is whether or not last year's licenses may be used. Licenses of the previous year are good until new ones are available. A pasteboard tag may be used in lieu of a lost license plate. If both the license plate and certificate are lost, however, a new one must be obtained.

Auto Owners Use Worthless Checks

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Checks totaling $108,669.65 sent to the State Revenue Department in payment for motor licenses and other fees incidental to the operation of automobiles have been returned to the Department, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles. The checks were returned by banks on which they were drawn chiefly because the makers either had no funds on deposit or insufficient funds to meet them.

The figures cover the first three months of the year. They exceed by $6,091.78, the total of checks returned for the same cause last year. A penalty of $5 is levied on makers of all such checks irrespective of the amount of the check.

Fairmont Avenue Trees Are Saved

MeGown's Oaks Will Not Be Cut Down Owing To Agreement

Due to the harmonious feeling that exists among the property-owners of Fairmont avenue between Highland avenue and Carlisle street, several large oak trees which were imbedded in the ground 30 years ago and owned by Reed MeGown will not be injured or cut down when the avenue is paved.

When the petition was passed, the petition requested 26 feet but lately it was deemed best to make the cartway 30 feet and the ordinance called for a 30-foot cartway.

Last night Mr. Megown pointed out to neighbors that the beautiful trees would be either cut down or injured if a 30 foot cartway was required. The neighbors went into a "huddle."

Within a few minutes they decided that with a 28 foot cartway there would be plenty of room for traffic and that the trees could be saved. Council was so advised today and now Fairmont avenue is waiting for the paving.

Fire Hydrants To Be Put In Myer Avenue

Water Company Notified That Meyer Avenue Paving To Come

Councilman Treser today during a session of solons at the municipal building was authorized to inform the New Castle Water company the city proposes to pave Meyer avenue between Carlisle street and Highland avenue and that the proper water main should be constructed so the avenue will not be torn up for 10 years.

It is also planned, as suggested by Fire Chief Lynn, to have several fire hydrants installed for fire protection. They will be placed, it is understood at Albert street and Meyer avenue and Meyer avenue and Carlisle street.

MEN ARRESTED AS THEY TRY TO GET INTO WRONG HOUSE

Edward Peterson and Eddie Aho were arrested Thursday afternoon following the complaint that they were trying to get into 1025 Cascade street, which was not their home or place of residence. Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch answered the call and finding them under the influence of liquor arrested them. They paid fines of $3 each this morning on their appearance before Mayor William H. Gillespie.

New Charges Will Be Filed Against Prosecutor Thomas

Legal Advisers To Mahoning Judges Prepare Sensational Charges

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 17—Attorneys Fred J. Heim, A. M. Henderson and Theodore A. Johnson, legal advisers to the five common pleas court judges today were expected to file a dozen sensational charges against county Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas, in an effort to dislodge him from his post as investigator of the relations between public utilities and public officials.

Thomas was the victor a few days ago in the supreme court battle to prevent the judges from ousting him as prosecutor in the utilities investigation. In previous statements, he was charged with exhibiting a friendly attitude toward utilities, which the Mahoning county common pleas bench charged would hinder the investigation.

CHINESE WELCOME RETURNING MISSIONARY

(International News Service)

BOSTON, April 17.—When Dr. Percy T. Watson, returned to Fanchow, North China, from a vacation at his home in Northfield, Minnesota, in answer to a call from the Provincial government to fight the Black Plague, he was met at the bus station by a military escort, a brass band, magistrates, and some 10,000 persons, it was reported to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Dr. Watson is head of the Fanchow Hospital, the only medical unit to serve 8,000,000 in China's great northwest.

Red greeting badges identified the official welcoming party and the populace showered the returning physician with pink paper flowers. Tea was served at the station and then followed one round of receptions after another according to the report.

It was also revealed that through the efforts of Dr. Watson, 45,000 soldiers scheduled to be quartered in Fanchow were diverted further South.

SAYS SILVER SLUMP HIT CHINESE STUDENTS

(International News Service)

BOULDER, Colo, April 17.—The education of Chinese students in the United States has suffered a setback because of the slump in the value of silver during the past year.

This, in the opinion of Dr. C. C. Wang, supervisor of Chinese students at the University of Colorado here, is the reason fewer oriental students are attending higher educational institutions in this country.

Dr. Wang pointed out that the exchange value on Chinese silver dollars is ordinarily two to one, but last year the value of silver fell, making it necessary to pay $3.50 in silver for one dollar in gold.

As a result of this drop it will be impossible to send as many students to this country as previously because more Chinese money is now required for the support of a student in the United States, according to Dr. Wang.

Dr. Wang has been in charge of 30 Chinese students attending the University of Colora o for the past two years. These students are studying railroad transportation and highways.

Thiel To Hold Financial Drive

Will Seek $750,000 Among Lutherans Of District Early In June

DR. E. CLYDE XANDER

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 17—Plans for a campaign to raise $750,000 for Thiel College among Lutherans of Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, were formulated today at a conference in Pittsburgh, attended by more than 500 pastors and laymen. Approximatel 230 parishes of the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran church were represented.

Among those who addressed the conference were Rev. Henry H. Bagger of Pittsburgh, president of the Synod: Rev. E. Clyde Xander, D. D., president of Thiel College: Rev. Gould Wickey, Ph. D., of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the Lutheran board of Education: Robbin B. Wolf, Esq., of Pittsburgh: Franz Thurm of Wheeling, W. Va., Charles D. Rissell of Greenville, Pa., Peter Graff, III, of Worthington, and Paul H. Baldwin of Rochester, Pa.

At the afternoon session, Synodical president Bagger emphasized the obligation of the Pittsburgh Synod to Thiel College, and a discussion followed, resulting in complete approval of plans for a campaign to be conducted in every Lutheran church of the Synod, between May 31st and June 4th.

Thiel College, which was established in 1866, is owned by the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran church, and is one of the thirteen colleges owned by this denomination in various parts of the United States. The purpose of the campaign is to increase the endowment fund to $500,000, to remove the present indebtedness, and to provide, if possible, a new girl's dormitory.

SOUTH AMERICA WINS PRAISE FROM SAVANT

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 17—South America is the country of the future, the only place in the world where one still finds an emotional life of real intensity.

This is the opinion of Count Hermen Keyserling, German-Russian philosopher and savant, as he expounded it before a crowded audience in the Trocadero recently.

Praising the effectiveness of scientific inventions in North America, he lamented the absence of "the essential spirit."

"The emotional life in the United States is pale and weak in comparison with South America," said the Count. "One feels real human power in that rich, easy country. It will be the cradle of a future civilization."

He hinted that the machine has killed emotional life in America and that the women of the northern states would not last long because their lives are not emotional enough. Southern women, beautiful emotional types one finds down South may well be the saviors of America.

The Philosopher warned his audience against the so-called new intellectual, the product of the machine-age. He tries to interpret his age, but he does not create. To realize the significance of life itself, it will be necessary henceforth to build up a philosophy and mode of life which will combat the soul-destroying effects of modern activity and a mechanical outlook which rules out the spiritual.

Has Time Proving He Is Still Alive

World War Veteran Classed As Dead When He Seeks Loan

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17—Amos McDade, negro, and veteran of the World War, is having a tough time these days trying to convince people he is not dead.

The people he is interested most in convincing are the staff of the local Veterans Bureau where he has made application for a bonus loan.

Shortly after he had made his application, he dropped around to the offices to find out why the loan had not ben granted.

He found out that he was dead—records showed that his adjusted compensation certificate had been sent to Washington eight months ago to be paid in full, because McDade was 'deceased."

The local office doesn't know whether anybody actually collected on the death of McDade. But it does know that McDade cannot get his loan—at least not until he brings in enough records with convincing proof that he's alive and entitled to be walking around.

Colorado Checks Ownership Of Autos

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 17.—Out of the long-grass country of southern Texas vast herds of cattle were trailed to the northwest a half-century ago. With the coming of spring this year another type of movement was started northward from the same state.

Second-hand automobiles, battered flivvers and ponderous limousines began pouring through her northward bound with the coming of green grass.

Finance companies, it is said, repossessed cars in the drought-stricken areas of Texas and started driving them into Colorado for resale.

Complications arose when it was found that many of the cars were without proper licenses or ownership certificates. Chief of Police Hugh D. Harper, widely-known as the man who brought the Fleagle gang to justice, has been asked to check on the ownership of cars coming through Colorado Springs.

Harper and his assistants are detaining each caravan as it appears and investigating ownership of the cars.

Wesleyan Graduates Give Funds For Gym

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 17—Graduates of Wesleyan University have provided funds for erection of a dirt floor gymnasium to be known as the athletic alumni building.

The structure to cost $125,000, will be 160 feet square with a clearance of 45 feet at the center.

Olin F. McCormick, of Philadelphia, and Frederic W. Frost of New York, headed the committee that raised the funds, the building being intended to mark the centennial of the foundation of Wesleyan as a college.

The new building will go east of the gymnasium, and is to be followed eventually by a swimming pool building and a building to house handball and squash courts.

REALISTIC

"Can you act?" asked the movie director.

"Act? Why on the stage last week I died so naturally that a man in the audience fainted. He was my life insurance agent."

Catches Whale With Hook And Line

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 17.—Honest anglers, cast aside your rods, pull up your chairs and listen to the fishiest of fish stories.

A Natal, South Africa, angler has landed a whale on rod and line, according to reports from Johannesburg.

This Natal angler was quietly fishing in a channel off the beach forty miles from Durban when he noticed a baby whale of the sperm family, threshing wildly, apparently separated by whalers from its mother.

Failing to hook the whale by casting his line several times, the angler plunged into the water and swam out to the whale. After carefully inserting his hook into its nose he returned to shore, and after two hours playing landed it.

Curiously enough, however, the further the whale came out of the water the stronger it became, as it was able to breathe and recover strength. Finally it had to be killed with an assegai, at least, that is the story Johannesburgers are telling.

The French government has established regulations for the inspection of all re-enforced concrete work, both during and after construction.

Real American Tragedy

Quite disturbed, Theodore Dreiser, (right) author of "An American Tragedy" protests to Will Hays, movie czar, over the "vivisection activities" of Hollywood producers. A film company is now doing an adaption of the famous book and Dreiser threatens court action unless the screen version meets with his fullest approval. Hays does not appear to be very sympathetic.

Prison Breaker Speedily Caught

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN, April 17.—The first convict to escape from San Quentin prison in several years enjoyed his liberty for just 17 minutes before being recaptured.

The prisoner, Paul Stoneburger, serving a sentence for robbery from Los Angeles, joined the garden workers as they were returning to work from their lunch hour.

As the prisoners started up the hill Stoneburger made a dash for the brush but was seen by a guard on the top of the hill, who took a shot at the fleeing man.

Other guards hastily summoned from the prison, quickly overtook Stoneburger and recaptured him.

Unspoiled Taxco Lures Tourists Visiting Mexico

Village Retains Primitive Habits Of Three Centuries Ago

By RICHARD C. WILSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TAXICO, Guerrero, Mex., April 17—Sparsely inhabited and virtually the same as it was 300 years ago when it prospered under Spanish rule of Mexico, the village of Taxco has been "rediscovered" by the construction of a national spot sought out by venturesome tourists.

Taxco has been painted by scores of artists recently and on an average of 20 scribes loiter about regularly to chronicle word pictures of the beautiful little mountain village. New restaurants and inns will soon replace some of the tumble-down adobe buildings which have stood in abandonment for years.

To modern Mexican historians Taxco graphically typifies the shackles of Spanish rule following the days of the conquest of Cortes. The mountains surrounding the village, once filled with bulging veins of gold and silver, today are barren of wealth. Tons of precious metal were taken from the shafts by lash-driven Indian slaves who in turn were chained together to carry the wealth to Vera Cruz where it was loaded aboard ships.

The Indians of Guerrero, once a proud and warlike tribe, faded rapidly under the lash of their Spanish conquerors. Today only a few descendants remain to eke out a meager living in and near Taxco.

The most imposing edifice standing in Taxco, reminiscent of Spanish rule, is the stately pink colored cathedral erected by Jose de la Borda, whose ability to lash the Indians into their treadmill existence in the mines made him one of the world's wealthiest men.

Borda's church was built in 1748 on a small knoll in the village where the dying Indian race could each day see the monument of their subjugator. Its two towers of pinkish hue cast their shadows over a cluster of crumbling adobe huts. In contrast with the rest of the village, the magnificence of the cathedral appears as an ill-proportionate as a tattered beggar swaggering a silk top hat.

However, American tourists in their quest of quaint and interesting places to explore promise to provide Taxco the means to improve the rest of the village to match the elegance of the cathedral.

Settled in 1529 by the Aztec Indians, American tourists attract little attention of the native Indians of today. For two centuries during its heyday Taxco frequently was host to Mexican military leaders and foreign celebrities.

Policeman Must Swap Club For Broomstick

(International News Service)

BOSTON, April 17—When is a policeman not a policeman?

Patrolmen Garrett F. Farrell, Jr., and Edward Harrington of the Jamaica Plain Station ought to be able to answer this puzzling riddle, for it seems they volunteered when their superior, Captain Herbert W. Goodwin, appealed for a janitor for the station-house, to take the place of the regular custodian, dangerously ill at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

After tests in their ability to dust, shovel, and perform similar tasks have been made, either Patrolman Farrell or Patrolman Harrington will swap his night-stick for a broomstick.

Rout Baby Whale With Live Steam

(International News Service)

GROTON, Conn. [illegible]—A baby whale recently tried to insinuate itself into the affairs of the Trawler Tern, working off George Banks. The mate on board the Tern settled the mamal's affair by turning live steam on it. The whale hoisted itself onto the Trawler's deck, and for some minutes there was a question as to what might happen. The Tern had a decided list. But when the whale felt the steam enveloping its form, it flipped back into old ocean and disappeared.

The tale of the trawler and the whale was related by Radioman Howard Johnson, who sent it in a radio message to friends here.

Improvement Seen In Coal Industry

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 17.— Improvement in the coal industry in Eastern Ohio was seen by mining men here in an announcement of a five percent wage increase for miners of the Meisler Fuel Corporation.

The increase, officials said, was the result of securing several long-term contracts. Mining men said the incident was the first voluntary wage boost in the middle states bituminous field in several years.

RHEUMATIC HERMIT DOESN'T LIKE WOMEN

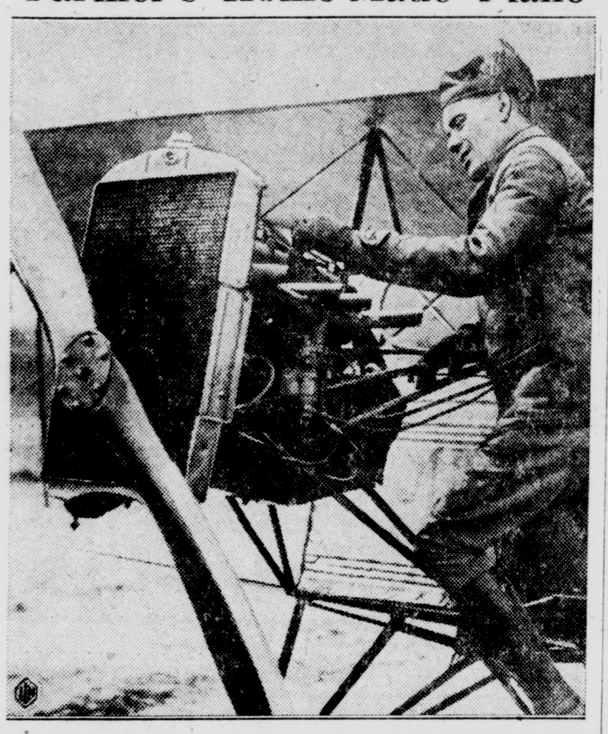
(International News Service)

LIVINGSTONE, N. J., [illegible]—Jack Farrell, of this town, the prize hermit of the Orange Mountains, is down with rheumatism and has been advised to go to a hospital to escape the cold and discomfort of his miniature hut.

But Farrell has no intention of leaving his domain. First because Flora, his black gutter pup, would be deserted, and second:

"Too many women around in a hospital," he said.

Farmer's Home-Made Plane



With little more material than a motor from his discarded Ford truck, and no more training than he could get over his own cornfields, Hugh Zimmerman (above), 36-year-old farmer of Omega, Okla., has become a practical aviator to the extent of taking his two children to their school several miles away each day in this home-made craft.

ECHO OF TREE SITTING IS HEARD IN SUIT

EL PASO, Texas., [illegible]—An echo of the past summer's tree-sitting craze was heard in court here when the father of a boy brought suit against an electric company alleging his son was injured by the company's lines while attempting to establish a perching record.

T. J. Nance alleged in his complaint that his son, T. J., Junior, was burned when he came in contact with high voltage wires passing through the tree in which he sat. He asked $6,500 damages.

Predicts Device Will Give Cheap Power In Home

German Engineer Believes He Has Solved Power Question

(International News Service)

BERLIN, April 17—Cheap power stations from thermocells in everybody's home is planned by Hugo Fritzel electrical-engineer, who believes he has hit on the method by an invention of a new thermo-cell allegedly developing twenty times more electric energy than all hitherto known thermo-cells.

"Sunlight will never yield enough electricity to run a power station" claimed Fritzel in an exclusive interview with International News Service, referring to Dr. Bruno Lange's invention of transforming light into electricity, which made a hit with the world press.

"Why not take heat? It is much cheaper," continued the engineer. "Lange would have to use a sunlight battery of 10,000 cubic meters to produce the same amount of energy namely one kilowatt, which I could produce with thermo-battery of five cubic meters.

"Here is an example illustrating the lack of rendability of sunlight batteries. It is easy to boil water in a kettle by means of gas, but it will be practically impossible to make the water boil by a sunlight battery.

"I think thermo-cells are the easier and cheaper way by which to generate electric power. I succeeded in constructing a thermo-cell of 1.30 volt electromotoric power. This is twenty times more than any hitherto known thermo-cell yields, the best yielding about 0.06 volt.

"The best part of the thermo-cell, however, is that everybody can build it for himself and without any too great costs. Here is the recipe: 'Connect two polished, ordinary copper wires, such as you use in your home for your bell, with the clamps of an ampere-meter and glow the free ends of the wires by gas fire for a second or so after bending them into two hooks. That's all you need, for it's a thermo-cell.

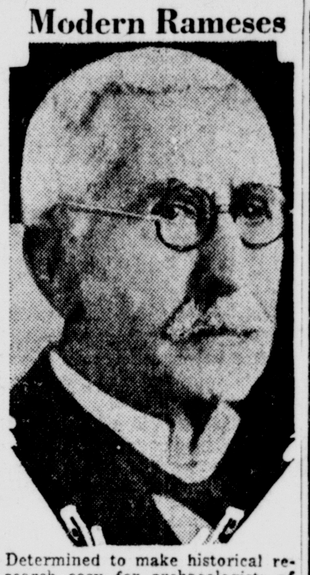
"Now bring together the two hooks, as you would two crooked forefingers, heat the hook connected with the negative clamp of the amperemeter until it glows red, and an electric current will immediately flow from the cool hook through the amperemeter to the red-hot hook.

"This is the whole secret of my invention. I think, it marks the beginning of the time when people in districts without power stations will be able to produce their own electric light by means of thermo-cells.

"The importance of the invention is evident. Instead of generating electric current through a circumstantial process, namely via coal-boiler-turbine-dynamo — you can generate your electricity for home consumption, and much cheaper and much more than by photo cells."

Fritzel has applied for a patent on his invention to the German Reich Patent Board.

Modern Rameses



Determined to make historical research easy for archaeologists of the distant future, William Hope Harvey, 80-year-old political veteran, is building an age-resisting pyramid atop the Ozark Mountains, near Monte Ne, Ark., in which he plans to put records and samples of our present civilization for earth dwellers thousands of years hence to read and study. Harvey believes that the surface of the earth as we know it will be completely covered by future geological formations.

Fewer Frenchmen Becoming Teachers

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 17—French men are showing less and less liking for the teaching profession. Before the war they shared equally with the women the 118,000 positions among the various primary educational institutions of France.

Today, there are 77,000 women teachers to 43,000 male, according to recent statistics. Contrary to the general rule, women are now authorized to teach a large number of classes for boys.

Among the classes of secondary education, women teachers also far outnumber those of men. Low salaries are probably the principal cause, as well as the gradual opening up of more attractive careers for men.

Says British Women Seldom Break Law

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., April 17—British women rarely run afoul of the law, according to Alexander Paterson, commissioner for prisons in England and Wales, who, with his wife, has come to this country to study our prison system.

Mr. and Mrs. Paterson, who spent a week here recently, inspecting the principal prisons and jails in Massachusetts, already have visited many American cities.

The chief trouble with our prisons, says Mr. Paterson, is that many of them are overcrowded. This condition, he pointed out, is rare in England where many of the prisons are only half full of reluctant guests.

Finds Radio Public Musically Under Age

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., April 17—Raising the standards of the radio-listening public from that of the 16-year-old one is one of the major problems confronting the music supervisors of the country, according to H. Howlett of Cleveland, Ohio, radio official.

"Seventy-five per cent of all radio listeners want dance music," Howlett told members of the Southwestern Music Supervisors' association at their annual meeting here recently. "We of the radio world do not blame the listener. He does not know any better. Musically, the American people are about 16 years old. Shame on those of you supervisors who have taken the attitude radio programs are trash.

"It is up to you to teach the listening public a deeper appreciation of all good there is in better music and thus create a demand for music of that kind over the radio."

Howlett then told how the radio was gradually raising the musical standards of the country.

Wins Citizenship After War Tangle

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17 — Through a tangle of mixed nationalities, the overthrow of an empire, and near starvation in war-time Germany, Mrs. Bertha Metz Hewlett has finally fought her way back to American citizenship.

A decree restoring her citizenship has been issued by United States District Judge A. F. St. Sure, under the Cable act.

Mrs. Hewlett was born near San Francisco in 1897, but went to Germany two years later with her parents. Immediately after the overthrow of the empire, she swore allegiance to the German republic to obtain a food card.

In 1921 she married a German, but subsequently divorced him. When she came back to the United States she married Palmer Baker Hewlett, her present husband.

Second Group Of Dramas Presented

Three More Plays In Tournament Presented By New Castle Churches Thursday

Last Dramas In The Series Will Be Presented In High School Next Week

A religious drama is one which sends the audience away exalted in spirit, deepened in its sense of fellowship with God and man, and enriched in its understanding of the spiritual forces which struggle in men's souls, and it was with a combination of these feelings that the audience left the High school auditorium Thursday evening after witnessing the second performance in the series of religious dramas being presented by the various churches of the city.

The program opened Thursday evening with a fifteen minute concert by the orchestra from the Mahoningtown school, under the direction of Miss Gladys Thompson. The group played between the dramas; their numbers were enthusiastically received by the audience.

Plaps Presented

The first play presented Thursday evening was "The Boy Who Discovered Easter," put on by the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, under the direction of Virginia E. Cook and Jack Holliday.

The playlet depicted the story of a small boy from New York, who had been crippled since birth; who had never seen a thing grow and who was skeptical of everything he was told. An operation was performed upon the boy and he was taken to the country to recuperate and his reaction to all growing things was carried out in a splendid manner by the marvelous acting of George Horchler, Jr. The remainder of the cast was:

Mary—Jane Leicht.
Maggie—Alama Smith.
Shelly Diggs—George Horchler. Jr.
Dr. John Dexter—Charles Dungan.

The costumes and stage settings were arranged by Ruth Schnebly and Ione Farver. Each character was presented in a manner that showed careful training.

Second Play

The Wesley Methodist church presented the next drama in Thursday night's production and this was "Bread," depicting the struggle of a farm family for economic independence and culture. Its realism was soul stirring and its message was one that reached all hearts. The play was directed by Mrs. Wilbur Flannery and the roles were capably taken by members of thic church; each being letter perfect in his or her part. The characters were:

John Curtis, a farmer—Wm. Rech.
Martha Curtis, his wife—Mildred Mottinger Martin.
Grandma, his mother — Lucille Hunter.
Stella, his blind daughter—Hazel Matthews.
Betty, another daughter—Laura Bacon.
Jim, his son—Tom Grittie.

Trinity Players

The last playlet given Thursday evening was "Behold the Man", by Brandon Tynan, presented by the Trinity Episcopal church and directed by Dudley M. Arnold.

The story is set in a coal mining town in Pennsylvania, which is in the toils of a "labor leader" and tells of the conflict of a priest between an urge to save his life, neglecting his duty, and the impulse to risk his life, standing by his ideals and obligations. Needless to say, the priest's choice is consistent with the great faith he embraces.

The part of the priest was most realistically portrayed by Dudley M. Arnold, who has appeared in a number of plays presented by the Theater Guild and his acting was perfect.

He was supported by a splendid caste, all of whom have reputations in the city as to their ability in amateur theatricals. The cast included:

Father Studefski — Dudley M. Arnold.
Martha, his sister—Helen F. Lyle.
Slevski, leader of the strikers—John A. Jones.
Mrs. Slevski, his wife—Betty A. Glover.
Malloy, a miner—Harry J. Cullifford.

The third and last group of plays will be presented in the High School auditorium Thursday of next week, with the Temple Israel Congregation; the Central Presbyterian church and the First Congregational church taking part.

The Ben Franklin orchestra, under the direction of Miss Evea Coulter will furnish the music for the last group of plays.

Revised List Of American Dead In Nicaragua Given

American Consul Makes Official Report Of Those Killed By Bandits

TWO FOREIGNERS AMONG VICTIMS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A revised list of the Americans killed by bandits in Nicaragua was sent to the state department today by American Consul Rowe, at Bluefields, Nicaragua.

The list follows:

John H. Bryan of Clinton, Md.; William H. Bond, Jr., of Sarasota, Fla.; Percy Davis of Hammond, La.; Will L. Selser of Little River, Fla.; John D. Phels of Livingston, La.; John L. Pennington of Croset, Ark.; and Rip Davis of Mississippi.

Foreigners killed, according to the report, were Henry Roper of Bluefields and Walter Manning of Janaica, both British subjects; Moses Sagastume, a Gautemalan, and F. O. Ramirez, of Corinto, a Nicaraguan.

Rowe advised a previous report stating bandits had attacked Rama, 60 miles from Bluefields, was erroneous.

Burns Asks For New Ordinance

Wants East Washington Street Widened Several Feet

Councilman Burns, during a councilmanic meeting at the municipal building today, asked that a motion be adopted authorizing the city solicitor to draft an ordinance providing for the widening of East Washington street between County Line street and Butler avenue.

Burns said an ordinance setting the property line had been adopted, but none passed for the widening of the cartway.

Police System In Pittsburgh Under Attack By Judge

Judge James H. Gray Says Police Incompetent And "Play Politics"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 17.—Charging Pittsburgh police with incompetency and inability to cope with the crime situation, Judge James H. Gray today was on record with the assertion that "the ward chairman has the control over the police department."

"Each year there are many boys between the ages of 16 to 25 brought into the court. Long terms are given them and still others do not profit by their punishment.

"What a price we pay for political crime in Pittsburgh! What we need is a police department put in the hands of experts without political strings of any kind."

Judge Gray told of a conversation with Major Lynn Adams, head of the state police, in Harrisburg recently.

"I asked him what he could do about the vice and crime situation in Pittsburgh," the jurist said. "He answered that he could show a 75 per cent decrease in vice and crime if he had police without politics."

Colorado Women Beat Men Driving

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 17—Women are better automobile drivers than men. At least Leslie E. Bratton, manager of safety for the city and county of Denver believes so, and has statistics to back up his belief.

Statistics of his department show that in 1930 there were 60 deaths caused by automobile accidents in the city of Denver. Only six of the drivers who figured in these accidents were women. Of 2,439 drivers involved in non-fatal accidents only 224 were women.

"For some reason the American public seems to have got the idea that a woman driver and disaster are synonymous," Bratton said. "It's a mistaken idea."

Locusts still figure in the menu of many Eastern peoples, who eat them boiled much in the manner as we eat shrimps. In Mexico other insects are eaten in great quantities.

Negro Turns Gun On Companions In Shooting Spree

Wounds One Of His Companions In Free Use Of Revolver Last Evening

Lewis Wyatt, negro, for some unknown reason, about nine o'clock last night, went wild and started emptying his revolver on a number of negro companions in an alley near Lewis Shearer barn near Moravia street.

Wyatt fired five or six shots. One took effect in the finger of Leroy McClendon, negro, while a second passed through the coat sleeve of Sam Wilson, negro.

Lieutenant Hillers, Detective C. G. Logan and Officers Dukes and Lockard answered a call to the effect that a murder had occurred on Moravia street.

Lieutenant Hillers and Officer Dukes captured Wyatt after an exciting chase. He was located on Elm street. The gun was not found as Wyatt had thrown it away.

This morning Wyatt was turned over to Alderman W. T. Hamilton, where McClendon and Wilson made charges of Felonious assault and battery with a revolver. He will be given a hearing later.

Arizona Wants Gas To Replace Hangman's Rope

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 17.—Growing sentiment in Arizona against the gallows, but in favor of capital punishment probably will soon result in adoption of lethal gas executions.

Governor George W. P. Hunt is the chief supporter of gas deaths.

Should the governor succeed Arizona will join Nevada in "painless" executions. This is in sharp contrast to the practice of pioneers in both states, who hanged men for comparatively minor crimes.

An effort by Governor Hunt in favor of the lethal gas chamber was flustrated this year when the legislature adopted a measure providing for it, but failed to include a referendum clause. Therefore, the act was unconstitutional and was vetoed "with profound regret" by the governor.

In his message to the 10th legislative assembly, Governor Hunt urged passage of a gas death bill and in vetoing the unconstitutional measure said:

"I am hopeful that there will be sufficient public interest shown in this subject to cause the proposal to change the method of execution of condemned persons from hanging to lethal gas to be placed on the ballot at the next general election. Failing that, I am confident that the next legislature of Arizona will submit the question by a referendum."

Cerutti and his wife started saving odd coins five years ago.

Chairman Ainey To Appear Today At House Probe

Ainey's Appearance, Together With Missing Exhibits Causes Stir

VALUABLE PAPERS REPORTED STOLEN

Preliminary Report By House Committee Will Be Made Public Monday

By ROBERT G. GORMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, today was to appear before the House Utilities Investigating Committee to testify in connection with action of the commission in the Scranton-Springbrook Water Company rate case, first time the commission chairman has been called as a witness in the current probe of utilities.

Meantime, mysterious disappearance of a group of exhibits which were to be presented to the committee in the case caused a stir among members.

Exhibits Disappear

Hurried search of the committee's rooms and of those used by various experts for the committee failed to disclose the missing exhibits, which had been left with other papers on a table in the hearing room.

Second night session of the committee was held up for some time while search of the exhibits was made but they remained missing. Members of the committee and attaches were unable to explain the disappearance of the documents.

The papers were prepared by R. W. Husselman, one of the committee's experts and their disappearance, it was stated, will handicap members of the committee counsel.

Activity Shifted

Activity of the committee was momentarily shifted to the Duquesne Light Company and the capital structure and financing of that firm were discussed by P. J. Keady, Westview.

Husselman then took the stand and the review of the Scranton-Springbrook started, as John Walker, assistant counsel phrased it "limping and with a flat tire."

The committee expert told how the engineering bureau of the Public Service Commission arrived at a valuation of the Scranton-Springbrook Company properties and how the commission valuation was several times changed. He also read various minutes of commission reports in which the valuation of the company property was finally set.

Harold Evans, committee counsel, apparently aimed at having Husselman show the engineering bureau was more or less a rubber stamp for utilities which advanced figures for their own valuation.

Report Ready Monday

The case was slated for renewed discussion when the committee resumes today.

Preliminary report of the utilities probers, it was also announced, will be ready and made public Monday. The report was expected last night, but final corrections and revisions will delay it over the week-end.

A Department of Justice investigation into the organization of the Hanover-McSherrytown Water company and the Gettysburg Water company was promised the probers by Attorney-General W. A. Schnader.

Last week, the committee recommended the investigation to the Attorney General, with a view toward criminal action against both companies if the Justice Department investigation warrants.

Schnader informed the committee his office will probe both companies and he would transmit results of the departmental investigation to the probe body.

Former Buffalo Prize Beauty Winner Enters Jail For 18-Month Sentence

(International News Service)

TOWANDA, Pa., April 17.—An admitted prohibition law violator, Irene Knight, who was "Miss Buffalo" in the 1925 Atlantic City beauty pageant, today was in the Bradford county jail here, less than a day of her 18-month sentence past.

The former beauty prize winner appeared at the jail last evening and surrendered herself to begin serving the sentence imposed when she pleaded guilty to charges of violating the prohibition law. State police arrested her near here last December and claimed they found a $2,000 liquor cache in her motor car.

The attractive brunette faced her imprisonment cheerfully, jail attaches said. She seemed somewhat depressed when led to a cell and locked up for the night but today had recovered her spirits and settled herself into the monotous routine of jail life.

SCHOOL COST RECORD LOW

Ellwood City Shows Good Record In Comparison Of Costs

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., April 17.—Comparing the per pupil cost, per year, taken upon a compilation of daily attendance records, the Ellwood City schools are shown to be well down the list, according to a table which has just been furnished the school board by the superintendent.

Ellwood's per pupil cost for the past past year was $53.51, which is lower than any one of the other nine school districts selected in western Pennsylvania for the comparative table.

In addition, the bonded indebtedness per pupil is low in Ellwood City, this being $196.36. This also compares favorably with the other districts. A tabulation showing the per pupil cost for instruction, and the per pupil cost in indebtedness is shown below:

Midland	$87.06	$286.87
New Castle	70.42	242.60
Beaver Falls	70.02	232.31
Rochester	68.31	136.51
Aliquippa	67.44	190.17
Ambridge	66.26	165.28
New Brighton	64.78	154.51
Sharon	59.14	273.48
Butler	58.79	84.42
Ellwood City	53.51	196.36

Thus Ellwood City has the lowest cost for instructional service and next to the lowest in indebtedness. The total indebtedness of the local school district is $409,000.

Track Squad Is Showing Up Well

Coach Lloyd Is Pleased With Work Of Members Of School Squad

ELLWOOD CITY, April 17.—Coach Todd Lloyd is highly pleased with the showing of his track squad at the first official tryouts held on the high school athletic field in the earlier part of the week.

Joe Welsh broke the tape at 10.6 seconds for the century with Strouse and Sheeler close behind.

Mike Dunn made the 10 high hurdles in 16.8 seconds with Ralph Strouse coming second. Dunn's state record is 16 flat.

John Lincoln, who is fast developing into a good half-miler, ran his specialty in 2 minutes 14.8 seconds, with Bob Kennedy coming in second.

Paul MacMurdo's time for the 440 yard dash was 54.4 seconds with Bob Johnston placing second.

Dunn is fast approaching form on the 120 low hurdles, making it in 14.4 seconds. Strouse's time was 1-5 of a second more. Bill Pander and Paul Kuben made it in 14.8 seconds. It is evident that the local team is going to present a great threat in the hurdles events in future competition.

Cunningham and Streeter seem to be the best bet in the high jump, going 5 feet 6 inches and 5 feet 5 inches respectively. Hooker and Segedi reveal promises of being pole vaulters, getting 10 feet. Kenneth Knight, the high school's star pole vaulter, has been rendered ineligible by the doctor due to a heart ailment.

Neff and Vogt are the best men in the weight events. Paul MacMurdo also won the mile with a time of 4 minutes 52.8 seconds.

Bill Pander and John Copits are getting nearly 18½ feet in the broad jump.

Better time and new athletes are expected to develop this afternoon at the Lincoln field when the interclass meet is scheduled to be run off if weather permits. On next Friday the local team will travel to Ambridge for a dual meet to be staged there. The Ellwood team is favored to come out on top.

Mike Dunn and Paul MacMurdo are ineligible for this meet and the Beaver Valley and W. P. I. A. L. meets. This pair are entered in all of the others.

Health Expert Indicates Need For Sound Feet

Selection Of Shoes Important In Keeping Feet In Condition

By ARTHUR McGOVERN
(Written Exclusively for and Copyright by International News Service, 1931)

NEW YORK, April 17.—When we stop to consider how important it is to have sound and efficient feet, it is strange that the average person gives them so little care unless they ache or hurt.

For foot comfort shoes are of the greatest importance, and every care should be exercised in selecting them. It is essential to have them fit properly—if they are too large, the effect will be as bad as though they were too small. Properly fitted shoes will prevent weakened ankles, weak arches, bunions, corns or shortened tendons.

For the man or woman whose work involves much walking or standing on the feet during the day, a foot bath is absolutely necessary at night in addition to the daily bath.

An excellent foot bath is made by dissolving bicarbonate of soda in lukewarm water. This is very soothing, especially to tired or blistered feet. Then, of course, there is the rock salt bath which is probably the most commonly used. The salt water bath helps to harden the skin and make the feet less susceptible to blisters.

Fresh hosiery must be worn every day and if you suffer from excessive perspiration, change your stockings twice or even three times during the day.

Walking on paved city streets will never exercise the foot muscles properly. Instead it puts a strain on some muscles and fails to bring others into play. A "walk" as nature intended it to be and for which the human foot is designed should be an up-hill and down-hill and over-rough-irregular ground walk which will exercise all the muscles of the feet and keep them supple and strong.

When you cannot get such a walk, use a few simple exercises at home. Try walking about your room on your toes to strengthen weak arches. You can also practice "gripping" with the toes as if in an effort to pick up an object from the floor. Both these movements are simple, but can be of great benefit.

Marriage Dangerous At Most Any Age

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 17.—The dangerous age for marriage is always, according to the Right Hon. Sir Ellis Hume Williams writing in the Paris edition of 'The Daily Mail."

It is all bosh to think that the tenth year is the critical one in most matrimonial life says this former leader of the Divorce Bar. There is no fixed age when married life is not threatened by outside appeals, no time when the eternal triangle may not make its dangerous appearance.

"Age seems to have little to do with domestic tragedies" writes Sir Ellis. "I have seen men in the Divorce Court from 18 to 80."

Aching Kidneys Made Strong Or Money Refunded

If kidneys and bladder have become weak, irritated—causing sleeplessness, painful urination and back-breaking aches, look out for trouble.

For prompt, effective relief ask your druggist for a box of Wildunger Tee, containing valuable kidney-activating salts from the famous Wildunger Bad, in Germany. This mild European medicine helps more than a ton of harsh drugs, say many physicians who prescribe it. In fact so sure are the importers of this amazing preparation that you'll be overjoyed at the relief it brings that they have instructed druggists to refund every penny unless you're delighted.

Even high blood pressure, rheumatic aches, pains, stiffness and swelling, and acid indigestion quickly respond to Wildunger Tee. Get a big box today. Use it faithfully. If you're not absolutely convinced that you are getting well after taking only one box, your money back.

You can get Wildunger Tee at New Castle Drug Co., 31 East Washington St. and 44 North Mill St.

Observe Seventh Anniversary Of Vets Auxiliary

Charter Members Are Present At Meeting Held Thursday Evening

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, observed their seventh anniversary in connection with their regular meeting in the Legion Home Association building last evening.

There were forty-five members present for the occasion and six of the charter members of the auxiliary were in attendance. Six new members were initiated at the meeting with full ceremony.

Ten members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Shenango Valley Post were present at the meeting and during the course of the evening, remarks were made by Mrs. Twila Boldt, president of the Sharon Auxiliary.

Mrs. Mary Dean, historian of the post, gave an interesting history of the auxiliary from the date of its institution.

The date of the card party, which had been planned for Monday evening, April 20, was set ahead to April 27. The auxiliary has received an invitation to attend a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Joseph T. Black post of Butler on April 20 and decided to accept this invitation and to postpone the card party for one week.

At the close of the evening, lunch was served by the refreshment committee of which Mrs. Mary Cox is chairman.

Rain Halts Brush Fires In District

The morning's rain dispelled grass and brush fires in the county for a time, at least. In localities where brush fires had been raging for days the change in the weather was welcomed by farmers and rural dwellers.

Second ward firemen extinguished a grass fire on West Fairmont avenue shortly after 3 p. m. Thursday after residents of the district had telephoned that the blaze was progressing on a vacant lot.

Earlier in the day leaves and brush were on fire in Gaston Park, Cunningham avenue. Fifth ward firemen beat out the flames after they feared the fire might attack thick underbrush in the locality.

Open Gambling In Reno Halted

District Attorney Orders Suspension Of Open Gambling In Reno

RENO, Nev., April 17.—Suspension of open gambling started recently in Reno after passage of a new state law, has been ordered April 28 by District Attorney Melvin Jepson.

The suspension was ordered because the Reno City Council has not passed an ordinance legalizing gambling. The state law requires that gambling permits shall not be issued by the various county sheriffs unless applicants can produce a city license.

Jepson also instructed Sheriff E. R. Trathen, who has issued licenses without city permits, not to grant additional permits.

The city council announced last week it would not consider a gambling ordinance prior to a city election to be held May 5.

Test Grain Value As Milk Producer

HARRISBURG, April 17.—It requires from 3 to 5½ pounds of grain to make one pound of milk according to recent figures gathered by the agriculturist of the State Department of Welfare under whose jurisdiction are the herds of cattle on State institutions.

The report indicates that in some herds 3 pounds of grain per cow are sufficient to produce one pound of milk. However in a larger number of herds 3 to 4 pounds of grain are required and in 3 herds the maximum amount of grain reached 5 pounds.

Babson Predicts Better Business

Tells Hoover Trade Is On Upgrade And Forecasts End Of Depression

WASHINGTON, April 17. — In what he described as his first optimistic statement on business trends since his forecast of the stock market crash in the fall of 1929, Roger W. Babson, statistician and financial authority, told President Hoover Thursday that business had turned the corner and was on the upgrade.

"This is the first time," he told Mr. Hoover, "that I felt I could see the clouds breaking, from the statistical point of view."

Babson said he based his statement on figures and not on hopes. Car loadings the past month, he said, have been larger than those of a year ago and employment figures from the Labor Department have shown an increase for the first time since 1928.

Foresters Will Broadcast Talks

HARRISBURG, April 17.—The first of a series of evening radio programs sponsored by the Department of Forests and Waters will be broadcast over Station WBAK, Harrisburg, on Monday evening, April 20, from 8:15 to 9 o'clock. The address by Secretary Lewis E. Staley will outline the work of the Department and special emphasis will be given to the necessity for a more coordinated effort on the part of all citizens of Pennsylvania in the prevention and suppression of forest fires. April and May are the months in which more fires occur than in any other period of the year.

A male chorus and orchestra will furnish the music for the program. Similar programs will be given on the third Monday of each month at the same time. In addition to the monthly programs, radio addresses on forestry are given over station WBAK from 1:30 to 1:45 o'clock.

John Nader Invents Own Miniature Auto

Young Johnny Nader, of 15 North Beaver street, has solved the transportation problem (which so often bothers youth) in a very unique and a very satisfactory way.

Johnny, who is a student in the Benjamin Franklin junior high school, has his own private chariot and takes daily trips to every part of the city and out in the country, without any flat tires, no missing cylinders and with very little cost.

Some time ago Johnny, while gazing meditatively at an old wagon at his home, though what a fine thing it would be if only someone didn't have to push or pull it. The idea materialized. He secured a washing machine engine, attached it to the rear of the little wood wagon, fixed in place a couple of bolts, a chain, and as a result he had a fine self moving vehicle.

Gasoline is the power and one gallon will carry John and his wagon many miles. The other day he took a little pleasure spin out to the Second Dam, and back again. Needless to say the wagon attracts much interest in the city.

Divorce Mixup Puzzles Court

Court Officials Hope To Have Divorce Tangle Straightened Out Soon

CONFUSION CAUSED BY SAME NAMES

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., April 17—Mrs. Williams got a divorce because she wanted it. And Mrs. Williams got a divorce because she didn't know anything about it, and she doesn't want to be divorced.

That is the confused status of a case in the Lackawanna county court, in which revocation of a divorce degree is sought. It all came about when the wrong Mrs. Williams got on the witness stand.

E. A. Delaney, attorney, represented Mrs. Gertrude Williams, suing Stanley Williams for divorce. He also represented Mrs. Eileen Williams, also seeking severance of the tie that binds.

Mrs. Gertrude Williams came to court for a hearing, but the proceedings failed to bring out her first name or that of her husband. Delaney admitted his witnesses got mixed, and court attaches found that Mrs. Eileen Williams had been divorced instead of Mrs. Gertrude Williams.

Wondering at the delay in getting a decree, the latter inquired and the mixup was dicvored.

Mrs. Eileen Williams, meanwhile was reconciled to her husband, it was reported and wants the decree unwittingly granted to her taken back.

Court officials hope to have the Williams families straightened out within a short time.

Prompt Reporting Of Forest Fires Aid For Wardens

Persons Are Asked To Make Prompt Reports Of Small Forest Fires

PREVENTION IS QUITE NECESSARY

HARRISBURG, April 17.—The prevention of small forest fires from reaching large size was stressed in a statement today by Secretary Lewis E. Staley of the Department of Forests and Waters. "It is so obvious that every forest fire starts from a small flame that it would seem needless at first thought to call attention to the fact, yet it nevertheless remains that too often we are negligent in quickly suppressing the incipient blaze," Secretary Staley said.

In order to keep fires small they must be reported as soon as observed and then attacked promptly. The State's 4300 forest fire wardens are trained to promptness in reaching all fires that come to their attention; but too often fires are permitted to gain headway before they are reported. The Department of Forests and Waters has a deep interest in suppressing forest fires on private property as well as on State forest land, and the helpful cooperation of every citizen in reporting fires that come to their attention will help materially in reducing the acreage burned.

"When your house catches fire, or your neighbor's house, barn or business place, you notify the local fire department immediately. Forest fires should be reported in exactly the same way. Every telephone operator knows where to reach the nearest forest fire warden, if you only give her a call. In addition, the name and call number of the fire wardens in each community are posted in every telephone exchange in the State.

Accurate Data Helps

"When calling the local exchange to report a fire, it is not necessary to speak directly to the warden, but this is preferable. Although the telephone operator can relay the call to a fire warden, it will be doing a good turn by talking to the warden, who, because of his intimate knowledge of the country, can get the exact location of the fire. This is naturally very important, since it helps him to reach the fire in the shortest possible time.

"Each year between 2000 and 3000 forest fires occur in Pennsylvania. In some years this number is greatly increased, as was the case in 1930, when over 6000 forest fires occurred.

"Next to the absolute prevention of forest fires from starting, the most important accomplishment in lessening the forest fire damage is keeping the size of the fires that do start as small as possible," said Secretary Staley. "If 2500 forest fires can be kept to an average size of one acre, only 2500 acres will be burned. Event at ten acres per fire, only 25,000 acres will be burned over. It is apparent that the extent of forest fire damage in Pennsylvania can be greatly alleviated by quick extinction, and that the general public can play a very important part in keeping Penn's Woods green."

Crime Expert Hits At Towns Near Chicago

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., April 17.—One of the chief factors in the escape of holdupmen and gangsters from Chicago is the inefficiency of the police departments in the 300 towns and villages in the Chicago area and their lack of equipment.

This was the conclusion reached by Prof. August Vollmer, expert in police science, who conducted a survey while connected with the University of Chicago.

In announcing the results of his survey, Prof. Vollmer said:

"The modern highways lead in every direction and with the inefficient police departments in the surrounding towns and villages it is a cinch for any gangster or hoodlum with a modern high speed car to evade capture.

"Of the 300 towns in which the survey was made only 75 of them had equipment that could be called adequate.

"The remaining places were grossly undermanned and under equipped. In 85 of the cities of 10,000 or less population we found only 27 shotguns, which are necessary to stop speeding automobiles containing thieves or hoodlums."

Prof. Vollmer said he found that in almost all of the towns and villages the policemen had to buy their own firearms, supplies and equipment. In one town, he said, the chief of police had to run a raffle and dance to raise money for a police automobile.

A friend is a person who speaks of your versatility when he means your inability to concentrate.

Neighbors Talk of Change in Him Since World's Tonic Banished Catarrh

"World's Tonic did wonders for me. Why, all my neighbors are talking about the way I've improved since taking World's Tonic. It's nothing short of remarkable."

These were the words of a prominent farmer of Lawrence County, Pa., when he called to get a bottle of World's Tonic a few days ago.

"I suffered from catarrh ten years," he continued. "My throat and stomach were affected. Often my tongue was as red as a piece of red flannel and my tongue and throat were so sore that I could eat only liquid foods for days. I suppose my stomach was raw from catarrh that way also. Anyway, my stomach was all out of order. Often, just drinking a glass of water made me vomit. The Catarrh also affected my nervous system. I slept very poorly. My heart frequently fluttered and palpitated. My breath was foul and I was constantly spitting up a dark mucous that sometimes had the color of coal dust.

"You can't understand how grateful I am to World's Tonic for relieving me of this trouble. When I saw that World's Tonic was helping me, I kept right on and gave it a complete trial. I took several bottles. It surely did wonders for me, as I no longer have to get up at nights like I used to. My kidneys, liver and bladder and bowels are working regularly now. I haven't noticed a single symptom of my former trouble for some time. Of course I can't recommend World's Tonic too highly after what it did for me." Get a bottle today. Sold by Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley, Smith's and all other good druggists. (A-163)

Hunts Wildcats In Los Angeles As Profession

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Fifty wildcats keep the wolf from the door of Charles H. (Jiggs) Ullom, wildcat hunter and exhibitor extraordinary.

Ullom makes his living preying on wildcats.

Los Angeles of course is a civilized city, including Hollywood, Culver City and Universal City, but Ullom found the territory wild with wildcats, he disclosed today. He has caught more than 200 wildcats in the somewhat expansive Los Angeles city limits.

"Now and then I often run down as many as five wildcats a night," Ullom said.

A few years ago Ullom owned and operated a gasoline filling station at San Fernando. As a harmless hobby he caught and exhibited wildcats.

The exhibition attracted so much attention Ullom abandoned the oil industry and went in for the wilder pursuit of the wily wildcat.

There are 500 wildcats in "Wildcat City" in San Fernando.

At dusk Ullom treks quietly into the mountains. At dawn he returns with a wildcat or so. It's a wild old custom, but it's getting tame for Ullom who would desert the wildcat game for something big like elephants.

The drawback would be that elephants constitute one form of animal life that doesn't thrive in the wild in southern California.

Fox hounds aid Ullom hunt wildcats.

"It's simple," he explained. "The hounds chase the wildcat into a tree. I put the wildcat in a sack and bring him home."

Just like that.

"Odd beasts, these wildcats," said Ullom. "They won't eat until it gets dark, not even dark meat. I feed each little kitty 1½ pounds of raw horse meat each day. They love it."

Ullom taught Jumbo, a ferocious old cat of 47 pounds, to use ice skates, ring bells, pose for photographers and other tricks.

After long persuasion by the county bar association, the three judges of the court have adopted the judicial robe as a mark of dignity on the bench. All—Judges Stewart, McKeen and Stotz—appeared in robes when the criminal court term opened.

So well did the gowned jurists appear members of the bar are now considering a movement to have them adopt the wig, as worn by the judiciary.

Virtues Of Cuyahoga County Jail Tempt Outsiders To Move In

By M. O. CHENOWETH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., April 17.—Sheriff John Sulzmann of Cuyahoga county, manager of the "Sulzmann Hotel," which is known to some as the county jail, has instituted several improvements in his new bastille that he is wont to describe as the "modern" tactics for treatment of men and women held in custody of county authorities.

Prisoners they may be in some county jails of the country but in Cuyahoga's house of correction the inmates are really the "guests" of the county, if one regards the advantages that are accorded them by the genial gray-haired sheriff.

Regularly entertained by movie, stage and radio stars who are obtained for personal appearances at the jail when they come to Cleveland, through the efforts of Sheriff John, the inmates have the added advantages of buying smokes in the jail, gathering for dances under the direction of the sheriff in one of the larger cells, and getting hair cuts and permanent waves and suits pressed whenever needed.

Sheriff Sulzmann began his term in January with the promise that all prisoners held on bootleg charges would be given the most elaborate "suites" in the jail. On his request, several pianos and talking machines were contributed for the entertainment of the prisoners, and to "keep their spirits up," Sulzmann said.

The sheriff's next move was a startling one. Defying the temperance groups and the anti-smoke leagues, he issued an order which permitted the women held in the institution to smoke at will, and buy their smokes from the deputy sheriffs.

Cleaning and pressing service was the latest improvements to be added at the jail for the comfort of the "guests."

"When a person sits around in a cell day after day," the good, gray sheriff explained, "his clothes are likely to become a bit shabby."

"Naturally when he comes to trial it's to his advantage to look his best before the judge and jury. We're installing the pressing service as a matter of fairness."

Prisoners are charged 37½ cents to have their suits pressed. Women inmates also are permitted to use the new valet service. A full-time barber began work at the jail a short time before the valet service began.

County commissioners decided that things were going a bit too far, however, when a salesman appeared before them recently and started negotiations for sale of 50 silk lounging robes.

"The sheriff sent me here," he explained. "You see, it's kind of tough on the prisoners when they leave their cells to take a bath and have nothing to wear. Now the price—"

"Get out of here," Commissioner J. H. Harris shouted. "If things get any better at that jail I'm going to move in myself!"

Empty Auto Carried Two Miles On Train

(International News Service)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 17.—A railroad train recently arrived in Cheyenne with a small, badly battered coupe riding on the cowcatcher of the engine.

Trainmen were surprised and set out to find the victim of what might have been a fatal accident.

Two miles east of town they discovered Charles F. Leebert, a ranch hand, pacing up and down the track apparently searching for something he had lost.

"I came along here at two o'clock this morning," Leebert explained. "A blizzard was raging. My car straddled the track and I couldn't get it started. I set out for the nearest ranch to get help to get it off the track. When I got back it was gone."

The train crew is trying to figure out how they carried the car two miles without noticing it.

TREES

(International News Service)

This is the largest number of trees ever sent out from the nursery. The largest number of trees, 1,100,000, will be planted in the Pike national forest in Colorado. Other trees from the Monument nuseries will be sent to forests in Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

Program and Election.

The morning session opened at 9:30 with Mrs. R. W. McGranahan, president of the district, presiding and the morning was taken up with registration of delegates and reports from the 25 churches in the district.

At noon the representatives of the different churches each had a table arranged for them, the women of the host church having the dining room attractively decorated in spring flowers.

Mrs. Margaret Murdoch, a returned missionary from India, who is supported by this presbyterial, was the inspirational speaker. She appeared in the modern native costume of India, and had on display a number of the earlier costumes and told of the cutoms of the people in this country. Her story of the work and the need of workers was most interesting to the group, who were all interested in missionary work.

Queen of Carnival

Dorothy Knowlden (above) presided as Indian queen at the impressive annual fete at Ogden, Utah. Weird Indian rites formed a striking background for the carnival dance to the hypnotic strains of Indian music. The queen of beauty was chosen by popular vote.

Urges Adoption Of Bimetallism For Prosperity

Says More Than Half Of World's Population Desire Silver

(International News Service)

DENVER, April 17—A return to bimetallism is the only hope of the world for a return to industrial prosperity, according to Dr. Henry Mace Payne, consulting engineer for the American Mining congress who spoke before a group of Colorado mining men at the annual "sowbelly" dinner in Denver recently.

More than half the world's population, Dr. Payne said, desires silver currency, which has been destroyed as a purchasing power by legislative action.

"The great commonwealths of the United States are rich beyond the dreams of Midas," he said. "They should be creating opportunities for employment instead of legislating against imaginary sins."

Gold mining is due for a prosperous year, according to Dr. Payne. He pointed out that the slackness in the base metal industry made this possible.

Dr. Payne emphasized the value of the payroll in mining communities. Denver, he said, should be "mining minded" because of the great payroll turnover in mining communities.

"This city should launch a campaign to advertise the mineral resources of Colorado and to restore mining to the place it once occupied in the industrial life of the state," he declared.

Dr. Payne also recommended a return to bimetallism by the leading nations of the world as the remedy for the prevailing industrial depression. The entire continent of Asia, he said, has been reduced to one-fourth of its purchasing power by the demonetization of silver in India.

Alarms And Bombs Make Janitor Weep

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—There are two things a janitor at a Kansas City bank is going to avoid in the future, tear gas bombs and window sashes.

While sweeping after the bank had closed he accidentally set off the tear gas bombs. In a frantic search for air he opened the windows. That set off the burglar alarms.

When two cars of policemen arrived they found six windows open and the weeping janitor leaning out of one.

Conscience Troubled Girl Returns Ring

(International News Service)

DEL MONTE, Cal., April 17.—A diamond ring worth $25,000, stolen from Mrs. Harold Mack, wealthy Del Monte society matron, is back in her possession—all because the conscience of an 18-year-old girl who confessed stealing it would not allow her to sleep.

"I think those flashing colors in the ring bewitched me," the girl cried, as she led Mrs. Mack to a rose bush in a garden and dug up the ring from among the roots of the bush.

"You have been so kind to me, I couldn't help returning it," the girl cried.

Mrs. Mack refused to prosecute, although she had offered $2000 reward for the return of the ring.

MOVIE MAKERS FACE PROBLEMS OF TONGUES

By JAMES E. MILEMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 17—Advent of the talking picture has brought among other perplexing problems, the question "what about foreign versions?"

The talking picture promised to be a "golden egg" for the motion picture producer, but the complications that have arisen are tremendous.

From almost every foreign country demands have come for talking pictures with such film favorites as Will Rogers, Warner Baxter, Wallace Beery, Marie Dressler, and many other stars as well as famous singers and musicians. But how are there favorites going to talk to the foreigners? This is the problem that confronts the film producers today.

The Chinese, Japanese and the people of other far-away lands who nearly split their sides over the antics of Charlie Chaplin and other comedians are not content without the up to date talking motion picture.

WESTERN TYROL POWER TO SUPPLY AUSTRIA

(International News Service)

VIENNA, April 17—More than two billion kilowatt hours a year will be delivered by the new water power works in Western Tyrol, the erection of which was recently decided by the Austrian government.

With the realization of this project, Austrian power stations will generate about five billion kilowatt hours of electricity per year as against 1,300,000,000 before the end of the war.

Though the building of the new water works involves the expenditure of several hundred million schillings, it is considered to be of greatest importance to the Austrian national economy.

The building of the Western Tyrol water works will be succeeded by the development of the "white-coal energy" in other parts of the country. According to official estimates, Austria possesses in exploitable water power energy an electrical reserve of approximately 20 billion kilowatt hours per year.

Parisiens Wear Best On Sundays As Styles Show

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 17.—Sunday suits are showing up in all chic places in the capitol, proving that pretty Parisiens still put on their best bib and tucker when the seventh day comes around.

Glad rags for Sunday sometimes come in the form of the fashionable collarless coat worn with a light wool or silk frock. Then again, it may be one of the jaunty jacket suits or perhaps a contrasting ensemble, such as a Vionnet currant-red velveteen worn with light beige or rose frock.

Patou puts printed georgette dresses with plain wool coats. Dark frocks with pale coats or the other way around are seen at all the Sunday races. Dark blue and lime-green make a stunning Sunday combination as it comes with a three-quarter coat lined with the lighter color which is also used for a scarf effect at the neck and on the under part of the double sleeve of the frock.

Jeanne Lanvin is showing some charming Sunday ensembles made of sapphire-blue coats and white wool frocks. One coat model just meets in front and ties below the ermine scarf with an ermine bow, and at the waistline with a wool bow. The coat has a baggy Lanvin sleeves and the dress short cape ones.

A Paul Poiret Sunday suit consists of a rose-red woolen fitted coat with small turnover collar and large cuff. It is of redingote cut with two buttons at the waistline and comes over a dress of diamond-mesh wool in rose-red with bertha collar and velvet ribbon girdle which happens to be very much the thing in Paris at present.

Inventors League To Meet At Vienna

(International News Service)

VIENNA, April 17.—An International Congress of Inventors for the purpose of founding a World League of inventors will early next year take place in Vienna.

According to an official announcement of the Australian Inventors Society, the proposed World League will have as its aim to help and protect inventors, who have a common international interest as far as the patent laws of the various states are concerned. A reform of these laws in most countries is urged by inventors.

Inventors, whose financial means as a rule, are rather limited, desire also a quicker method of procedure against the infringements of patents than the ordinary civil law suit. As they are mostly not in a position to carry on lawsuits for years, the World League will try to bring about an international agreement whereby patent infringements should be included in the sphere of crminal jurisprudence, in which proceedings are much quicker and more satisfactory.

The World League is also expected to act as an international agent and to further and economise relations between inventors and exploiters.

Scoop Bonnets, Sailor Shapes, Set Paris Agog

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 17.—Scoop bonnets and sailor shapes are setting Paris agog this spring and promise to be foremost bonnet fashions for summer.

Suzanne Tabbot, who often starts things around the capital, first made the scoop effect in white hemp straw with narrow white grosgrain band and two lacquered flowers in white and bright red. Cut out at the back like a veritable coal-scuttle, it extends to great width on the sides and the flowers are posed on the very front of the forehead.

Another lovely scoop bonnet comes in black cire bako with pastel-pink peau d'ange satin across the crown and at the back. It dips low on the sides.

The sailor with crown squarred by a fold is a strong note in the Patou collection. One comes in a fancy blue and white heavy straw with buttoned oil-cloth band. In black milan with side droop there is fluted white tulle for trimming combined with the straw encircling the brim and forming the under-brim trimming. A navy-blue milan has trimming of fluted yellow organdie.

The pastel hat matching dress or blouse but worn with a dark coat is a leading fashion this spring. White hats which were a big item last summer are beginning to appear in quantity again, but still newer is the hat of pale blue, light green or pink.

Many Student Inquiries At Westminster

Indications Are That Enrollment Will Show Big Increase

TUITION LOWERED FOR COMING YEAR

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 17.—Applications for admission from Michigan, New York, Ohio, New Jersey, as well as Pennsylvania; letters requesting information concerning new courses to be offered; and letters requesting books, pamphlets, and literature are keeping the Westminster College office force busy these days.

In addition to some 1200 names of prospective students on cards signed by students themselves, alumni have been sending in names of boys and girls who are interested in the college. Indications are that there will be a material increase in enrollment next fall.

Faculty visitation to high schools has netted a large number of prospects. Some 40 schools have been visited, while more than 40 remain to be visited before the third week in June. During the past week Westminster representatives were in Niles, Warren, Girard and Youngstown, Ohio, and in Etna, Pa. Next week will find them in Punxsutawney, Oil City, Franklin, and Warren.

Tuition Lowered

Changes in curriculum, now in the hands of a special faculty committee; the addition of a number of new courses; and revision of the requirements as well as the addition of a bachelor of business administration degree, are attracting many students. Then, too, the tuition has been reduced by the board of trustees, and room rent in Robert Audley Browne dormitary for men has been cut down.

A large number of students from the upper classes who were in college last year but who did not return this year will be on hand in September to enroll again if letters being received are any criterion. Transfer students from other colleges will find it hard to get in, college officials state, because of strict entrance rules and the fact that dormitories and classrooms will be taxed to capacity if upper classmen and freshmen are considered first.

Special bulletins covering special departments and courses are in the hands of the printers and will be available for mailing soon. A reprint of the college viewbook, in demand more than ever this year, is expected from the printer the first part of next week.

Curriculum Changes

The list of more than 1200 prospective students are receiving catalogs, view books, special pamphlets and bulletins, and in many cases are receiving personal letters from the heads of the departments in which they are interested.

The faculty committee on courses, composed of heads of the various departments of the college, has been meeting two and three times each week for the last month to reshape the curriculum to modern needs. The committee will be ready to announce their recommendations and finding within a few days, Dr. Charles Freeman, acting president, states.

Waynesboro's Noted Fox Terrier Is Dead

(International News Service)

WAYNESBORO Pa., April 17—An accomplished "stunter" and favorite of this town, "Puppo" 11 year old fox terrier, is dead. He was killed when he was hit by an automobile.

Trained by his master "Puppo" made his debut as a performer at a firemen's convention in 1924. He dove from ladders into nets, fold listeners his age by barking, smoked a pipe and wore glasses.

"Puppo" also held the honor of being the first Waynesboro dog to go aloft in an airplane.

Here's hoping the national bedtime story will soon be changed. We're all sick of listening to "The Great Big Bear and the Teeny-weeny Bull."

I was subject to severe headaches and could not sleep well. I tried Ten Herbs and was surprised at the results your medicine gave me. My stomach is in such good condition that I can eat anything without having gas, pains or retching. Headaches have been relieved and I no longer have dark spots before my eyes. My nerves are stronger and I rest well at night. I cheerfully recommend Ten Herbs."

Laws Pile Up Beyond Ken Of U. S. Citizens

Nearly 30,000 Laws Enacted By Congress In Last 40 Years

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 17 — The timid soul who is fearful that he may unconsciously violate one of Uncle Sam's laws has a busy time ahead of him—for nearly 30,000 laws have been enacted by Congress in the last 40 years alone.

How many laws of the federal government are actually in force at the present time is unknown. Some estimates run well over 100,000.

But with all the laws there are on the statute books at the present time, Congress still believes in the quip, "there ought to be a law."

The business of making new laws is on the increase. An almost steady increase in the congressional output is shown in the last decade.

The statistics which disclose the propensity of Congress have been prepared by William Tyler Page, clerk of the House. His figures extend over 20 Congresses, each of two years duration.

They show that in this period 28,759 laws have been enacted. Of this number 11,347 are called public laws and 17,412 are private measures.

One of the principal businesses of Congress, the figures show, is the enactment of private laws—claims for pensions, damages by mail trucks, removal of a dishonorable discharge of a soldier in the Civil War and similar claims.

For many years the public laws enacted by Congress each two-year session averaged about 500. In recent years there has been a spurt.

The 69th Congress enacted 808 new public laws, the 70th Congress, which expired in 1929, put 1,145 on the statute books and the 71st Congress, recently closed, added 1,009.

So difficult has it become for attorneys for the federal government and others to trace down federal statutes that Congress had attempted to codify them. Attorneys investigating the situation have found scores of duplications.

Seek Bond Issue For Big Texas Highway Plan

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Texas, April 17—Designed as both a tax relief measure and a means of giving Texas a complete system of connected state highways, a proposed constitutional amendment seeking a $200,000,000 road bond issue is now before the state legislature.

The plan is unique in the half of the proposed fund would be set aside for the purpose of refunding money which counties have spent in past years on roads now designed as state arteries. Under the plan, $85,000,000 would be lifted from county tax rolls at once, with a reserve of $15,000,000 left over to take care of emergencies.

The remaining $100,000,000 would be set aside for construction purposes, not more than $20,000,000 of which would be spent in any one year over a five year period. This, proponents of the amendment say, would give Texas a complete highway system. The constructive program would be carried out at the direction of the legislature.

Included in the amendment is a a provision for a tax on automobile fuel, the proceeds of which should be sufficient to take care of refunding the bond issue.

"The results of this amendment," R. T. Stuart, head of the good roads committee sponsoring it, said, "is that a burden of taxes would be lifted from property and placed strictly on the shoulders of the persons who use the roads."

The bond issue plan is meeting stiff opposition in anti-administration quarters.

Predicts Onset Of New, Sounder, Era In Banking

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17—An era of sounder and more profitable banking is growing out of the chaotic business period marked by more than 1,300 bank failures in the United States.

That is the opinion of H. N. Stronck, of Chicago, a specialist in diagnosing the ills of banks, who spoke here at a regional conference of more than a thousand mid-western bankers.

"There will be more failures," he said, "but nothing like last year's, because bankers are learning how to manage their banks properly."

The excuse of "frozen assets" for closed banks is considered a poor alibi by Stronck. Banks fail he said for one of two reasons—dishonesty or mismanagement of the bank's resources, and banks closing because of dishonesty are in the minority.

"The first regional bank conference was held in Chicago in 1929," he said in reviewing the efforts of the American Bankers association to stem the tide of increasing failures. 'New methods have swept the country as the result of that and other conferences, and this year will show the results in a lowered mortality rate. Most bank failures from now will be where the bank's community is failing or drying up."

While multiple banking systems, frequently called branch or chain banks, may play an important part in the rehabilitation of banking the unit bank always will remain, Stronck believes.

Excavate Once Famed Fortress

(International News Service)

TRABEN-TRARBACH, Germany, April 17—A new and interesting attraction has been added to the district around this small city, noted for its Moselle wines, by excavating the ruins of the once great "Montroyal" fortress.

"Montroyal" was built in the years 1686 to 1692 under Louis XIV by Vauban, the noted French military architect, and was the strongest fortress of its day. A great part of the ruins has been laid bare with the help of 2,500 volunteer workers.

Especially imposing are the vast vaulted cellars, mine passages, walls and buttresses. Between the portions of the fortress already laid bare walls and trenches extend for miles.

In the course of the nearly two and a half centuries interesting stalactites have formed themselves, such as one finds in natural caves.

Ainey Appears Before Probers In Wheel Chair

Chairman Of Public Service Commission Gives Facts To House Committee

COMMISSION NOT WELL MANNED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Wan and weak from long illness, W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the public service commission, today appeared before the house utilities investigating committee in a wheel chair, outlined operation of the commission and discussed its policies and action in individual cases.

It was Ainey's first appearance as a witness in either house or senate utilities probe. From his wheel chair, the commission chairman opened a discussion of action of the commission regarding "write-ups" of valuations of utility properties, declaring he opposed them and that the commission always attempted to keep such valuations down to equitable levels.

Never Properly Manned.

Ainey also told the committee the commission has no jurisdiction over utility securities under an opinion rendered by the attorney general's office in the first Pinchot administration. The opinion, he said, was forwarded to the federal trade commission during an inquiry into the Conowingo dam project.

The commission chairman, in reponse to questioning by Harold Evans, committee counsel, declared the commission has never been properly manned and that it is frequently necessary to change employees from one type of work to another to get it done. The committee counsel dwelt at length on the fact that various former employeres of the commission had been hired by Public Utilities.

Personnel of the commission, Ainey testified, has seldom been sufficient to care for all the work, particularly during the previous Pinchot administration when the governor slashed the commission budget so that a 25 percent personnel reduction was necessary.

Go Into Details

The chairman and Evans then went into detailed operations of the commission concerning issuance of certificates of valuation and investigations, particularly regarding the Scranton-Springbrook Water company. Ainey said the latter company had been investigated by commission engineers and a 577-page report on it made which has been the basis for much testimony in connection with the Springbrook rate case.

Previous to Ainey's appearance, John Walker, assistant counsel, read a letter from J. E. Zimmerman President of the U. G. I., Philadelphia, correcting testimony he made before the committee recently. The probers also heard W. N. Dietrick, committee accountant, discuss the $100,000,000 bond issue to be floated by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company for use in refinancing and extensions.

Committee members expressed opinions the proposed issue should be investigated by the Public Service Commission or the state securities commission, to determine its exact purpose, but were informed the securities commission has limited powers in such cases.

Youngest Of Hanna Clan To Be Archeologist

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 17.—Buried relics of long-forgotten civilizations have lured the youngest of the Hanna clan from the forum of national politics to the musty excavations of archeology.

Medill McCormick, 14, whose grandfather, Mark Hanna, dominated the Republican party for years, and whose mother, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, distinguished herself as a congresswoman, is to become an archeologist.

"Medill has become interested in archeology and I know of no better place to begin his studies than in New Mexico and Mexico," Mrs. McCormick said while visiting at the home of Mrs. William Eells, here recently.

Mrs. McCormick said that Medill, who is attending a private school at Colorado Springs, Colo., planned to make a pack trip with an archeological expedition next summer. Jesse Nusbaum, director of the archeological museum founded at Santa Fe by the Rockefeller foundation, will have charge of the expedition.

Trout Stocking To Aid Anglers

O. M. Deibler, Commissioner Of Fisheries Announces Stocking

HARRISBURG, April 17—The im-Deibler, Commissioner of Fisheries, today made public a list of the trout streams stocked during 1931. Fishermen should find plenty of sport in these waters as all trout planted range from seven to eleven inches. The season opens April 15 and continues to July 31.

Deibler said fishermen should be careful to have their license with them properly signed, placed in the button and worn in a conspicious place. Those who observe fishermen not displaying their license properly will confer a favor upon the Board by advising the sections where they have observed offenses of this kind and regular officers will be sent to patrol the area.

Commissioner Deibler pointed out that it was impossible to include all the trout streams in the Commonwealth and only those which have been stocked are listed. These waters are all well worth fishing and the survey which has been in progress during the past two months shows these particular streams are capable of carrying all trout planted without any fear of becoming dry at any time during the year.

Fishermen desiring a list of the waters stocked last fall may secure it by getting in touch with the Board at Harrisurg.

This year officers of the Board have made it a point to watch streams for several days after having been stocked to prevent illegal catches.

The streams listed by the Board follows:

Bedford county—Beaver creek, Cove creek, Shovers Run, Upper Yellow creek, Evitte creek, Bob's creek; Cambria county— Baker's Run, Hinckston Run, Beaver Run, Cameron county — Driftwood creek, Centre county—Elk creek, Little Black Moshannon creek, Penns creek, Logan Branch creek, South Fork-Beech creek; Clarion county—Deer creek, Big Mill creek, Hemlock creek, Toby creek; Clearfield county—Bennets Branch Anderson creek; Elk county—Nigger Run, East Branch of Tionesta creek Trout Run; Forest county—Bear creek, Big Salmon creek, Beaver creek, Big Coon creek, Dawson Run Hickory creek, Johns Run, Little Coon creek, Little Salmon creek, Queen creek, Ross Run, West Millstone creek; Fulton county, Aughwick creek, Licking creek, Wooden Bridge creek; Huntingdon county—Black Log creek, East Branch of Stone creek, Laurel Run, Licking creek, Shavers creek, Stone creek; Indiana county—Little Mahoning creek, Little Yellow creek; Jefferson county—Little Mill creek; Somerset county—Clear Shade creek, McClintock Run, Brush creek, North Branch Brush creek.

Additional waters are now being stocked and while the list will not be available for several days, fishermen will be kept advised as to what is being done by the Board towards increasing fishing.

Says Firemen Retire Too Soon

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., April 17—Policemen and firemen too frequently retire in the prime of their service when they become eligible for pension, according to Safety Director Edwin D. Barry, who has decided something must be done to put a stop to that phase of the retirement system.

"At present too many of our middle-aged men are in demand because of their training and experience, but they take their pensions instead of continuing with the service and immediately accept a position in some other line of work," Safety Director Barry said.

The safety director is attempting to collect supporters for an amendment to the pension ordinance which would impower him to decide whether a policeman or a fireman is ready for a pension, even though he has been serving 25 years.

Salvation Army Proves Helpful To Unfortunate

Its Employment Service Is Helping Many To Get Work Of Some Kind

The Salvation Army employment service is proving itself not only very helpful but popular at the present time and many are the persons, who are receiving some benefit through its operation.

Ensign V. Thomsen, officer in charge here, has had quite a number of calls from homes where persons were wanted for odd jobs and has supplied jobs for a number of people as a result. Among these have been jobs on farms.

Another service not often heard of, but which the Salvation Army offers to the community and county in which it is located, is the parole service, under which those who are being punished for some infraction of the law, are given a chance to make good through being paroled to the Army.

Ensign Thomsen has just had an opportunity to show this line of helpfulness just recently. As a result of a conference in Youngstown yesterday by Ensign V. Thomsen with Ensign B. Kirkman officer in charge of the Youngstown Social Service Institution in that city a young man of this community will be given employment for several months until his parole to the army lapses, after which he will rejoin his family again. In this particular, the Youngstown institution is another valuable help in the work of the Army in this city.

Another girl was admitted to the Salvation Army Maternity Home at Bellevue this week and one will soon be discharged from that institution where she has spent nearly six months.

Ensign Thomsen stated in this connection that money which sometimes is thought to have been taken out of town as an assessment is used to care for such cases as have been mentioned above.

The value that the Salvation Army is to every community is in this way more and more appreciated as the situation is better understood. The Community Chest plays a large part in this way in helping take proper care of work of this kind.

Uncover Petrified Forest In Oregon

(International News Service)

ONTARIO, Ore., April 17.—Contractors are lamenting and ranchers rejoicing in the discovery of a buried forest directly in the path of No. 5 tunnel 700 feet below the surface and 4500 feet from the east portal of the Owyhee irrigation project.

The contractors are mad because the area dug out is "squeezing" which means twice the timbering usually used. The farmers are happy because the huge timbers that are as black as coal but split like wood burn easily. They are stocking their fuel sheds from the tunnel dump.

Some of the timbers brought from the bore are several feet across and appear to be cedars. The grain shows plainly. No effort has been made as yet to extract single pieces to show the length of the timbers.

Workmen have cut through more than 200 feet of the petrified forest and have not reached the end of the formation. The trees lie horizontal as if pushed over by some gigantic upheaval, while far above the sagebrush covered surface of the terrain looks like a barren waste without a clue to indicate that the spot was once a luxuriant growth of timber.

Scholar Upsets Legislative Routine

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., April 17.—The scholar in politics upset the smooth routine of the state legislature here when Roy Irwin Kimmel, of North Stonington, student in Yale graduate school, charged that the majority Republican party "had virtually disfranchised" nearly two-thirds of the voters of connecticut.

Kimmel secured a roll call vote on his proposition to reject the committee appointments made by the speaker of the house. He lost by a substantial margin on strictly party lines.

Kimmel's resolution declared Democratic members of the legislature were elected by votes of 153,042 voters in communities containing over 1,000,000 people while the Republicans were elected by votes of 93,484 voters in communities of 650,000 people.

"It's just too bod," said Judge Raymond A. Johnson, of Manchester, leader of the majority. "When you're in the minority, you're in the minority, and that's all there is to it."

Kimmel was graduated from the University of Colorado in 1926 and at Yale is a University scholar in economics, sociology, and government.

(International News Service)

LYONS, Mich., April 17—No one can get the proper setting for composing a prisoner's song in this municipality because the jail is no more—

A recent financial statement of the village assets included notation of receipt of $2 for "the sale of the town jail."

The lock-up, a potential threat to would-be law breakers, was a wo-cell affair.

City officials, in commenting on the sale of the hoosgow for the price of a necktie, said there was no need of a detention hall here.

Moore Will Case In Final Stages

Court Makes Statement That Evidence Of Fraud Has Been Uncovered

WOMAN SEEKING PART OF ESTATE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 17.—With a statement from the court that evidence of fraud had been presented, the two-edged case of Mrs. Dorothy Russell O'Reilly Calvit to break the will of the late Alexander P. Moore and to ascertain whether her mother's estate had been administered properly after her death, swung into its final stages today.

Testimony will be heard again today in the effort to trace 121 items of costly jewelry, alleged by counsel for Mrs. Calvit to be missing from the estate of Lillian Russell. Yesterday, some of the items, one a full length oil painting of Mrs. Moore, were traced.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble vehemently denounced the alleged purchase Moore made of a necklace of 68 pearls for $1,000 after obtaining an appraisal of $8,500 on it, and said "the doors were opened" for presentation of evidence purporting to show fraud in the handling of the estate.

Attorney Herman Pollack, counsel for Mrs. Calvit, was expected to complete today presentation of evidence on the claim of his client that her stepfather, Alexander P. Moore, cut her off with $1,000 in his will after he had given a pre-nuptial promise to Lillian Russell that one half of his $600,000 estate would go to the theatrical star's daughter by a former marriage.

Retirement Plan To Be Discussed By U. S. Steel Stockholders

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 17.—A new pension plan providing for compulsory retirement of executives of the United States Steel Corporation at the age of 70 will be submitted to stockholders of the company for ratification at their meeting Monday.

If the plan were adopted, it would call for retirement in 1933 of James A. Farrell, who has been president of the corporation since 1911. Farrell will be 70 on February 15, 1933.

E. J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, will be 70 in 1933 also and others who would be affected include J. A. Hatfield, president of the American Bridge company, also a subsidiary, and Ward B. Perley, president of Canadian Steel, another subsidiary. Both will be 70 in 1933.

Under the plan, which was worked out by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the company's finance committee, executives could retire on their own request or at that of their superior officers, at the age of 65 years.

Rubberized white broadcloth is used for the newest capes and raincoats, and there are umbrellas to match.

Here And Hereafter

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal.—Matthew 6:20.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

This story of the rich man and Lazarus is sometimes called a parable, although there is nothing in the words of Jesus or elsewhere to so indicate. If it is a parable it is the only one in which any one of the characters is mentioned by name as Lazarus is here.

However, whether parable or history, the story assures us of the influence of the life that now is upon the life that is to come. The lives we now live are projected into the eternal future, not that Dives continued to enjoy his good things and Lazarus his evil things, but that each in his lifetime determined his own destiny in the life beyond. The rich man did not go to "Hades" because he was rich, nor Lazarus to "Abraham's bosom" because he was poor. But each determined his destiny by his state of heart towards God and his neighbor. The rich man, "clothed in purple and fine linen, faring sumptuously every day," lived an utterly selfish life, indifferent to the lot of the "beggar, laid at his gate full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table." His sins were those of omission. But how death changes things! "The beggar died and was carried away by the angels into Abraham's bosom; and the rich man also died and was buried." There is the hint of an elaborate funeral with much pomp and display not seen at the beggar's death, but no ministering angels are mentioned as carrying his soul to Abraham's bosom. But on the contrary our Lord states solemnly: "And in Hades he lifted up his eyes, being in torment and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, "Father Abraham, have mercy on me, for I am in anguish in this flame." The teaching is clear that while death changed things, life determined those same changes. The hereafter was determined here.

Heaven and Hell.

The experiences to be met in these hereafters are beyond the powers of description or imagination. But regardless of whether the terms used in scripture to describe them are literal or figurative, one may be safe in saying that the best thing about "heaven" will not be streets of gold or gates of pearl but rather the conscious presence of God with the soul "that where I am there ye may be also." And, on the other hand the worst thing about "hell" will not be flames of fire, but rather the utter absence of any consciousness of the presence of God or any good where souls cry out continually, "My God, My God, Why hast thou forsaken me?" In the case of the rich man there were memory and remorse, but there was no sign of repentance or the change repentance brings. He demands that a miracle be performed that others be adequately warned as though he had not been fairly warned. To this Abraham replied, "If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, if one rise from the dead." In the meantime Jesus Christ has risen from the dead and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. The trouble is that men are quite willing to hear him when he speaks of "eternal life" through faith in Him, but not when he speaks with the same emphasis and in similar terms of "perishing" and "eternal death" through unbelief.

(The international uniform lesson for April 19 is Luke 16:19-31, the subject being "The Rich Man and Lazarus," and the Golden Text Matt. 6:20, "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal.")

Bonesetter Reese Is Seriously Ill

Famous Youngstown Man Is Suffering From Heart Trouble

Victor in thousands of cases of physical disability, John D. "Bonesetter" Reese is waging a grim battle for his own life at his home in Youngstown, Ohio. Seventy five years of age, his heart has failed him and his condition is serious.

"Bonesetter" Reese is known in every part of the United States. Athletes, boxers, public officials, all of them from David Lloyd George on down have felt the magic of his hands. Among his friends can be numbered practically all of the big league baseball stars for the past twenty years, and no circus played in or near Youngstown without "Bonesetter" Reese straightening out the kinks in many of their frames.

Left an orphan at eleven, Mr. Reese came to the United States from Wales in 1887. As a boy he had watched some of the Welsh bonesetters and had copied their methods. His skill in setting sprains and dislocations in the mills of Youngstown became widely known and he soon was forced to quit the mill and devote his entire time to setting bone dislocations.

He had no degrees but after treating the daughter of the then vice president Charles W. Fairbanks in the Roosevelt administration, he was permitted to practice by a special act of Congress. In 1926 the American Gorsedd conferred upon him the highest Druidic degree within its gift.

"Bonesetter" Reese's many friends in New Castle wish him a speedy recovery.

Rheumatic Fever Serious Because Of After Effects

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Acute rheumatism, or rheumatic fever, is the only disease which really deserves to be called rheumatism. The other forms of disease often classed as rheumatism — chronic pain around joints—are better classified as arthritis.

Acute rheumatic fever is one of the most serious of diseases, not for what it does immediately, but for its after effects on account of the damage done the heart. It is a definite infection caused by a definite germ. The lodgment of this germ in the body is certainly conditioned by the climatic changes. Cold and wet and exposure inquestionably conduce to attacks of the disease. Hence it is proper to call it a disease of spring, although it also occurs during the winter with equal frequency.

The climatic influence is nowhere better illustrated than by the incidence of the disease in different parts of the country. I had a distinguished Canadian physician visit my hospital wards some years ago, and after going around he said in a bewildered way: "Where do you keep your rheumatism patients?" The fact is we did not have any: our location is towards the south, with a tendency to warm, dry weather. The next spring I visited my Canadian colleague's hospital and found bed after bed, ward after ward, of patients with acute rheumatic fever.

The practical point is that, as in the case of pneumonia, there is no way to prevent rheumatism by inoculation or vaccination. We are even worse off in this case than in pneumonia because we have no idea what the germ which causes rheumatism is, so there is no possibility of even attempting a vaccine. But we can, to a great extent, control the factors of wetting and chilling the body in order to prevent rheumatism.

And prevention is nowhere in medicine more important than here. As we said above, rheumatism is a serious disease because of its consequences on the heart. There is never, or seldom, any permanent damage done the joints by rheumatism. As one physician has said: "Rheumatism licks the joints but bites the heart." It is one of the two most frequent infectious causes of heart disease.

The really serious effects of rheumatism, then, do not show up until many years after the attack. The germ lights in the valves of the heart, causing them to become crippled and to leak, or else to obstruct the flow of blood. The heart can compensate for this mechanical difficulty for many years, but there comes the time when it fails, and shortness of breath and irregular pulse and dropsy supervene. Even these may be overcome by proper care, but eventually all the defenses give way. Many deaths in moderately young people are caused in this way—deaths that are due to attacks of rheumatism ten or twenty years before, attacks that have long since been forgotten, that were supposed at the time to be of minor importance, and which, if proper precautions had been taken, might have been prevented.

One other sound piece of advice about the prevention of future heart damage is, if an attack of acute rheumatic fever has actually occurred, to enjoin a long convalescence in bed. The patient should stay in bed many weeks after he feels perfectly well and all fever has gone. In that way heart complications are reduced to a minimum.

Airmen Aid Epic Reindeer Push To Feed Eskimos

By LAURENCE DUMOND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 17—Driving a herd of wild-eyed reindeer across frozen and blizzard-swept Alaska with the aid of an airplane is the latest thing in sport—if you like your sport raw.

Even to the American Airways, Inc., whose Alaskan Airways division is putting on the Arctic act, it is rather a sporting proposition, an experiment that is still up in the air.

That the Eskimo might not starve, a herd of deer is being shunted over the ice fields of northern Alaska, within the Arctic Circle, to be delivered at a point on the Mackenzie river in northwestern Canada. The drive will take three years.

And during the months that seven men will be talking turkey to 3500 deer to make them cross a river, or fighting the hungry wolves, their only contact with the outside world will be airplanes, which will dart out to them from time to time with food supplies.

The airplane is making the deer-drive possible. Without the 300 tons of food that is to be flown to the outfit the expedition could scarcely go on.

Like a cold draft down the back of your neck comes the report of Pilot S. E. Robbins to his employers here on his recent contact with the reindeer pushers. He set out to fly over a mountain range to the head of the Aniuk River.

In the snow and dark he had to set his plane down on an ice covered bay to spend the night. "In order to avoid a long weary walk home," he says, "we tied the ship down. We drained the oil immediately because it was 20 degrees below zero and oil congeals quickly."

Next morning he found the Eskimo camp and landed the first airplane that had ever visited the remote spot. Twelve miles down the river the reindeer herders were sweating in the Arctic, trying to make the animals cross a river covered with glare ice. For three weeks they had been trying, but the deer could not be driven. The ice had been chopped to roughness, snow laboriously carried out and dumped over it, but the deer would not venture out.

Pilot Robbins entered his report, "It was the original plan to drive the herd up the Aniuk, through the pass and down the Etiulik to the Colville River. The Eskimos however said the pass would be a death trap. They told of storms which neither man nor caribou could survive. They said that every spring bodies of caribou were found with big balls of ice on their noses and mouth. Bahr (the 60-year-old leader) will try to make it to the Arctic slope through other water gaps."

Small Town Is Now Bird Haven

Village Of Barclay, Pa., Near Bradford Is Now Refuge For Birds

WAS ONCE THRIVING LITTLE COMMUNITY

(International News Service)

TOWANDA, Pa., April 17.—This is the obituary of Barclay, once-thriving Bradford county town now a refuge for game birds and animals.

Barclay's death notice was written with the taking over of the town site by the State Game Commission as a game and bird refuge, together with some 7,000 acres of contiguous land.

Barclay was once a busy place and hopes were high for its future.

The town had three churches, several doctors, a railroad, a sawmill, residences a-plenty—even a skating rink. Today, only a few crumbling foundations remain. It is the story of the passing of an industry and the passing of a town.

Barclay thrived when coal was discovered near here more than a century ago. Lumber was also plentiful and the town grew, even "boomed" for a while. The coal was carted down the mountains, later hauled over the old Barclay railroad, now the Susquehanna and New York.

But the coal veins played out and lumbering decreased and the town gradually fell away.

The last residence collapsed a few years ago. Just before that, the elements wrought havoc with the old Baptist church.

Now the site is in the hands of the state. A game refuge of more than 2,000 acres where no shooting is permitted, has been established on the town location, and public shooting grounds have been carved out of the adjoining lands taken over by the state.

Move Signal Tower Without Mishap

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., April 17—"Tower A" the "key" which controls rail transportation involving 348 passenger trains a day in and out of the North Station has been moved under the eyes of passengers without their knowledge and without the least halt in its functions.

This tremendous feat of moving the tower, from which run 640 wires and cables, and three pipe lines, which constitute the leads of the signal and switch control system for the 23 tracks of the North Station was necessary to make way for the latest steps in the Boston and Maine Railroad's $4,000,000 improvement project just outside the terminal.

Woman Elected As Bucknell Trustee

(International News Service)

LEWISBURG, Pa., April 17—Election of a woman to the board of trustees has earned for Bucknell university membership in the American Association of University Women.

Bucknell has admitted women students since its founding but not until Mrs. W. W. Kelchner, of New York City, was elected to the board has the university had a woman on its administrative board.

"25 years' experience as a practising physician and specialist in stomach disorders, has convinced me that patients suffering from loss of appetite, acid-dyspepsia, gas, heartburn, auto-intoxication, vertigo, bloating, belching, or other conditions due to constipation, should quit the use of drastic drugs and appeal to Nature for help."

NATURE'S GREAT MEDICINE

FLAXOLYN

"It Was Only Medicine That Ever Helped Me," Declares New Castle Lady

Nu-Erb Brought Quick Relief From Indigestion, Gas, Headaches, Constipation And Nervousness, Says Mrs. Turner

Although Nu-Erb has only been known to men and women of New Castle for the past few months, it is daily growing in popularity and men and women in all walks of life declare that this new medicine has brought relief from their suffering even after everything else tried had failed. Many local persons have given public statements in which they tell of the splendid experience which they have had with this medicine. Take for example the story that is told by Mrs. Jennie Turner, 1109 W. Washington St., New Castle, Pa.

MRS. JENNIE TURNER

"I had been in good health until about a year ago. I began to suffer from stomach trouble. My food refused to digest and after every meal, I became bothered by indigestion and gas. Pains around my heart seemed to be caused by this gas and everything I ate disagreed with me. I was troubled by constipation, headaches and I felt nervous and tired out most all the time.

"Shortly after I began using Nu-Erb, I felt better and have continued to improve in every way. I can now eat most anything I please and am never bothered by that indigestion or gas. The pains around my heart never bother me any more and those headaches have also gone away. My bowels are regular each day and my nerves are also much stronger. I sleep fine the entire night through. I eat better and I am feeling fine now. Nu-Erb has helped me more than any other medicine I have used and for that reason, it is a real pleasure to endorse such a splendid medicine."

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb Man now located there and let him explain the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Run-Down, Weak Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just give Tanlac the chance to do for you what it has done for millions.

Mrs. Fred Westin, of 387 E. 57th St. North, Portland, Ore., says: "Tanlac cured my stomach trouble completely after three years of suffering. It built me up to perfect health, with a gain of 27 lbs. That was two years ago, and I still enjoy the best of health."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs, it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

There is a man in town, who remembers quite distinctly how as a little boy, he attended a fair and races seventy years ago at a place, which most people only remember as a residential district of the city.

This fair grounds and track were just off North Jefferson street being east of that street and located on the top of the hill between Lincoln and Wallace avenue.

The race track was but a quarter of a mile in length and it meant that a horse competing in those days must encircle the track four times, in order to have gone a mile.

There were shows and exhibits of the usual run of shows. The fairs at this location were always largely attended and most successful.

It was probably one of the first fairs in this district.

Forest Fires State Menace

More Than 500 Have Already Been Reported In Pennsylvania

DELAY IN BRUSH BURNING URGED

HARRISBURG, April 17.—The menace of spring forest fires hovers over Pennsylvania. With the advent of the warm and dry weather comes the forest fire demon. More than 500 forest fires already have been reported this spring, which burned over an area of 10,000 acres.

Secretary Lewis E. Staley of the department of forests and waters calls attention to the fact that the woods are extremely dry and fires start from the least spark. It is essential that brush burning be delayed until it rains and that the utmost care be exercised in all other activities which are liable to cause forest fire. Secretary Staley announces that every facility of the department is made available in this forest fire crisis and all department employes have been informed that their first major duty is the prevention and extinction of forest fires.

The personnel of the Harrisburg office has been instructed to be in readiness to render assistance whenever they can in forest fire extinction. Every one is to have his "fire fighting togs" in readiness and when traveling to keep them in the car.

Deputy Secretary John W. Keller, who was recently on the fire line of four forest fires in Luzerne, Columbia and Lycoming counties, reports that the forest floor is highly inflammable and fires spread rapidly.

Orders have been issued to all fire wardens by Chief Forest Fire Warden George H. Wirt that they are to keep on the fire line only such men who can be used to good advantage. Gangs of men without the direction of a fire warden are not desired, as undirected efforts very frequently are more harmful than beneficial.

Persons who negligently or carelessly cause forest fires will be vigorously prosecuted whenever sufficient evidence can be secured.

City To Refund Fines Of Visiting Motorists

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—"Kansas City invites people from its trade territory here, and it is unfair to expect visitors to know our traffic laws," stated Mayor Bryce B. Smith when it was brought to his attention that a number of out of town visitors had been filed for traffic violation.

As a result of the mayor's action, money will be returned to some out of town visitors who were fined, and orders have been given the traffic police not to tag visitors' cars—they merely will be given cards advising them of the city's traffic regulations.

Handy Brothers Travel Widely At 91 And 86

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—"We'll settle down in ten years or so, that is if Milt gets this wanderlust out of his system."

Charley Handy, 91, grinned as he made this declaration on his arrival from Honolulu where he and his "kid" brother, Milton, 86, have been spending the winter.

Not because we need a mild climate," Charley hasten to explain. "We're retired farmers, have enough money to live as we please, so we spend most of our time traveling. "We love the salt air, keeps us fit as a fiddle."

It is to their travel on salt water, no salt in their diet and "gentlemanly behavior" that the "Handy men," as they call themselves, attribute their longevity.

Just to have a place to call home, the "boys" maintain a bachelor apartment. They start out on their various journeys from this place, and return there when the traveling urge lets up for a few weeks.

Charley declared that he hoped to celebrate his one hundredth birthday on the ocean.

Neither would attempt any formula for attaining old age other than that of living normal lives.

"We have been outdoors most of our lives," Milton said. "And we have done a lot of hard work. Neither of us ever used tobacco in any form and our drinks of strong liquor have been few and far between. We eat very little meat and use no condiments."

American Dress Rules In Latin Quarter

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 17.—Gone are the days of the picturesque beret and cape in the old Latin Quarter. French and other students are now sporting plus fours, Oxford bags and other English or American looking trousers. Romance is over. It is chic now to have a real American haircut and to look as sporty as can be.

Super-plus-fours are even better than simple plus-fours and are worn by all those who can afford them. They hang low in voluminous folds, much like Turkish trousers. Knickerbockers are donned by students in less happy circumstances, together with sporty shoes and woolen stockings. Head covering of any sort, of course is completely taboo on old Boul' Miche' these spring days.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

If you would ask me whether, in my opinion, the organization of farmers is making progress, I would say it was. If you asked me how fast it is progressing, I believe I would say, about the speed of a low-powered snail.

Friends of farming who believe in co-operative effort, particularly co-operattive selling, have plenty to keep them discouraged. They look about the world, and see farmers everywhere fully informed as to the principles of co-operation, and those same farmers making no moves in that direction, or actually backing down from steps they have already taken.

* * *

Yet some of the great strongholds of the co-operative system are quite untouched, and this in itself, in times like these, constitutes a victory for co-operation.

Some of these strongholds are Denmark and Switzerland, most of whose farm products are sold co-operatively; California, with her seasoned citrus fruit selling system; the egg co-operatives of the west coast; a half dozen powerful milk-selling organizations in various parts of the country.

On the other hand, the great Canadian wheat pool of the three "prairie provinces" is in some distress, a symptom of which is a strong movement among the growers themselves to make membership compulsory. This at a moment when a compulsory fruit co-operative in British Columbia is on the point of being abandoned.

* * *

This matter of compulsion is one that is continually coming up, and is never settled. Shall co-operatives consist only of those who want to belong, or shall 'he government by law force everybody to come in, if 85 or 90 per cent of farmers vote for it?

The most experienced co-operatives take no stock in compulsion. It is, I believe, unknown in Denmark, the world's school for co-operatives.

Yet the greatest obstacle the co-operatives face is the discontent of their own members, when they see non-members getting as much benefit in prices as the members, yet bearing none of the expense and responsibility. It is because of this feeling that the Canadian wheat pools are leaning in that direction, and this in spite of the British Columbia case I mentioned above, and the very indifferent success of compulsory pools in Australia and elsewhere.

Altogether, the situation is confused. And yet I am still of the opinion that co-operative selling is, on the whole, making snail-like progress forward.

Monessen Police Hunt "Firebug"

Four Fires In Five Days With Total Loss Of $37,500 Causes Action

(International News Service)

MONNESSEN Pa., April 17—State and local fire authorities redoubled their efforts today to determine the causes of four fires in five days, all of which have broken out in early morning and under similar circumstances. A firebug is believed rampant.

Latest prey to the flames was the famous Baking Company where damage of $1,000 resulted before alert fire companies extinguished the blaze. Total losses of $37,500 have been incurred in the four fires which have all been in street corner buildings and have been marked as "origin unknown" cases.

Butler School Boy May Loose Eye Sight

Pricks Dynamite Cap With Pin And Explosion Follows—In School Room

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., April 17—Possible blindness may be the fate today of Ralph Brown, 12, who set off a dynamite cap in a school room, causing a violent explosion and sending the twenty pupils into a panic. The pupil found the cap in his desk and pricked it with a pin, the blast going in his face.

The chap who said: "Everything that goes up must come down," knew little about taxes.—The San Francisco Chronicle.

BIG SHEAKLEYVILLE SWAMP FILLING MAY BE COMPLETED SOON

Although residents of the vicinity are skeptical, engineers are reported to believe the huge swampland a few miles north of Sheakleyville has been "licked" and that the marsh will be conquered for highway route 19 within a few weeks. Boyles & Milsom Supply Company of this city, hauling contractors for the big job reported today that work which was stopped temporarily during the past few months will be continued again by the end of next week, since the mud about the state project is expected to disappear by that time.

The swamp has been sinking since last summer when the state decided to fill in the area to construct a roadway which will connect Pittsburgh and Erie. Hundreds of tons of earth and stone, dumped into the muck and vegetation have disappeared from view.

Jubilee Singers Coming Next Week

Large Crowds Are Attending Dibble Meetings At Epworth Church

Great blessings is attending the meetings being conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Dibble in the Epworth M. E. Church. Mr. Dibble is in charge of a song service each night which is very unusual in its high quality and inspiration.

Mrs. Dibble spoke last night upon the topic, "Winning the Lost". She dealt with the problems of the spiritual instruction of the young people of today saying in part: "Blindness in the material as we know it today figuratively speaking is likened unto the condition spiritually of the eyes of the soul. The only way that one can know he is blind when he is born so, is by the testimony of those who can see. We take real care in seeing that our children are properly clothed, fed, and educated but are so often in these days totally indifferent to the needs of their spiritual lives, which are primarily the guiding factors. The church is trying to save our young people but the mothers and fathers are not back of it's effort. Homes have no prayer or no Bible Study and the results of such neglect is being reaped in the lives of hundreds of children every day."

"Some women will weep over losing the prize at a card game but will never shed one tear over their lost girl. Fathers will weep over a wrong deal but how many ever were concerned about their wayward son?"

Mr. Dibble is bringing the Spiritual Jubilee Singers, two men and three women from Chicago, to be with him all next week beginning on Monday night with a great all musical program. These people are trained singers, with Chautauqua, and concert experience and are very high class in the presentation of the negro spirituals. They will delight with their program of plantation songs.

Actual work on the two buildings, whose cost will run into millions is expected to start about June 1. The buildings will be erected in t... heart of a block already largely occupied by other hospital units.

Robots Control Light And Power Of Kansas City

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—An army of robots now controls the distribution of electric power over this city, and the power company has adopted the slogan of bakers, "Never touched by human hands."

The electric power leaves the main plant over large cables that lead to the 11 sub-stations in various parts of the town. There the power is whipped into the volume necessary for transmission over the many smaller lines which serve homes, stores, offices and factories.

Enough electricity is handled by the sub-stations to bring death to a whole army of men, but the steel fingers of the automatic switches move day and night, constantly alert to the ever-changing needs.

Even a steel hand acts as taskmaster over its robot associates, making a daily record of the activities of each.

Work was started on the automatic project in 1922 and with its completion it is believed to be the first in any city in the United States according to A. E. Bettis, vice president of the company.

There are five direct current substations in the downtown district and six alternating current stations in the residential districts. In the D. C. stations, where the current demands are irregular, automatic machines regulate the flow to meet the demand. In the A. C. stations, which supply the homes, the mechanism is chiefly engaged in reducing the voltage for distribution.

So sensitive are the automatic controls that ordinary breakdowns do not halt the work. A short circuit or a broken wire gives the signal for certain controls and the trouble is corrected automatically. Major breakdowns seldom cause a delay, for the robots change the switches and spare cables are put into use.

Jameson Hospital Facts

The business of your hospital is to give good medical care to its patients.

More than 7,000 hospitals in the United States represent a capital investment of nearly four billion dollars—an investment surpassed by only four principal industries. Yet, 95% of these hospitals costing four billion dollars are operated not for profit. Your Jameson Memorial Hospital is one of the 95% non-profit hospitals.

Approximately one-third of all patients treated in Jameson Memorial Hospital are treated for nothing. Their hospital care is free; their doctors receive no money. To assist this work the Welfare Department of Pennsylvania reimburses the hospital to the extent of $3.00 per day for eleven free patients every day. This amounts to $1,000.00 each month. $3.00 per day represents only 60% of the $5.00 of maintenance of a patient in Hospital for one day.

And perhaps few of us realize that our Jameson Memorial Hospital has average nearly 30 free patients during the past three months. Certainly, such splendid work merits our support.

Poem Of Five-Year-Old Shows Creative Spirit

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Writes a mother of Georgia: "In a recent issue of the Atlanta Constitution you requested samples of children's creative work, and I am taking the liberty of sending a poem which my little girl 'thinked up' when she was five. She has always been intensely dramatic and often sung dramatic songs to herself. One night I copied this down as she sang while putting her dollies to sleep:

"Sleep!
For God has given us our rest
He gives us peaceness
We love our God—we love His commandments
Have sweet dreams and dream about the angels
They go soft with us to bed at night.
La-la-la.

"She told me afterward that this la-la was a song by baby angels.

"I adopted my little daughter when she was two weeks old—have used modern methods entirely in rearing her, and today at eleven years of age she has a remarkable mind—leads her class—scorns a lie—has no fear of the dark, in fact, is a true gift of God."

Answer: You seem to be a sympathetic, understanding mother. I'm glad the angels your child knows are happy fairies and not "thieves" ready to snatch her off when she is not looking.

* * *

A Minnesota mother from a prairie farm writes of her child of two: "Often I find her alone in the living room dancing in perfect time to the radio although she has never seen any one dance.

"With much reading in the home the child will learn to like it and his tastes will be for what he has been offered. I think it is helpful for the parent to quote occasionally some fine bit of prose or verse. No matter if the child does not understand it." (I agree with this mother and regret that because of a foolish notion of modern education our children who are to be the parents of the future are rarely stimulated at school to memorize choice bits of literature.)

"I remember so well, how, after a heavy snow fall, my father would recall Whittier's poem,

"'We looked upon a world unknown
On Nothing we could call our own.'

"Then would follow tales of his snowbound boyhood home on an Iowa farm while breakfast grew cold. Since taking on the responsibility of life I can better appreciate the brave spirit that could find beauty in the snow that he, a country doctor in poor health, must shovel on his daily rounds. I have him to thank for the finest qualities I have and the deepest joys I know."

This the mother adds after saying: "My children were wise in the choice of their father. He plays with the children constantly and takes them for walks every Sunday. He also attracts other children to the yard."

* * *

I wish I had space for all her letter. What wonderful parents they are. This mother is passing on to her children some of the rare blessing she received in her own home.

Such is your hope and mine, my fellow parent. We cannot pay our parents for all their loving goodness to us. But we can pass it on to our children and they in turn to their children.

I wish we might have more expressions of creative childhood, and of creative parenthood.

WHEN SAN FRANCISCO BURNED

Stock Fire Insurance Met Its Supreme Test

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO San Francisco was in flames. The fourth day of the fire revealed 28,188 ruined buildings, covering 520 city blocks.

Thousands were left homeless. Property destruction reached the enormous total of 350 million dollars.

This one fire swept away all underwriting profit earned by the Stock Fire Insurance companies since 1860 and 80 million dollars in addition.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies paid more than 200 million dollars into the stricken city, and San Francisco stands today as a magnificent example of the restorative power of sound insurance and the courage and resourcefulness of its citizens.

Through succeeding years the Stock Fire Insurance companies comprising the National Board of Fire Underwriters have increased their efforts to make cities safer—protect life and property in all communities—reduce the possibility of San Francisco's experience being repeated anywhere.

CAPONE THEORY BELIEVED UNTRUE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 17.—While plans were made today to bury Guiseppe Masseria, slain New York racketeer, in a $15,000 solid bronze casket, 40 detectives attempted to solve the mystery of his death.

Masseria, known as "Joe the Boss" was shot down by two well dressed young men in a Coney Island cafe. His body was found with five bullets in his back.

Police refused to accept reports that henchmen of Al Capone killed Masseria. They said they did not know anything about "Joe the Boss" having represented Capone here and that he had recently quarreled with the gang chieftain.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney said he did not think Capone planned to establish himself in New York, as reported, and had sent gangs of killers into New York to make way for his entry. Mulrooney also said although Masseria was a "moderately big shot" in a variety of rackets, he was not as immensely powerful and wealthy as pictured after his killing.

These eruptions all over the face of the earth, revolutions here and earthquakes there, indicate that a good spring course of sulphur and molasses is what the old thing needs. —The Boston Evening Transcript.

Conditions have improved so rapidly in the last few weeks that some of the better breadlines are now serving toast.

Wouldn't Change Conn. Constitution

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., April 17.—A hatful of changes to the state constitution were presented to the Connecticut state legislature this winter, all of them minor matters.

When the proper legislative committees called hearings on the bills there was no appearance for them one way or another.

Checking up, the committees found the hearings properly advertised along with other hearings that called for packed sessions and then the committees decided no one was interested in changing the constitution.

The time when men did not make fun of women's styles?
The time when some one was not "viewing with alarm"?
The time when older people were not complaining about hard times?
The time when work did not make us weary?
The time when money did not seem, at the time, to be scarce?
The time when we were really satisfied with life?

New Serum May Cure Dreaded Haemophilia

Dreaded Disease May Find Cure Following Woman's Research

By GEORGE GALLATI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill., April 17.—Upon the research experiments of a woman physician attached to the University of Illinois medical college staff here science pins its hope for discovering a cure for haemophilia, the dread of European nobility for centuries.

A new treatment, which has proved successful in the case of two patients, has been developed by Dr. Carrol L. Birch of the medical college research staff, the university has revealed.

Dr. Birch is one of the few members of her sex who are members of the medical college faculty here. Her contributions in similar lines of research have proven invaluable.

Haemophilia has numbered among its recent sufferers two sons of King Alfonso of Spain. The disease afflicts only males. Its victims bleed excessively from the slightest wounds.

The difficulty in stopping the flow is accounted for by the resistance of certain blood particles, it was explained. These blood particles normally disintegrate and make coagulation possible but in persons afflicted with haemophilia the blood particles disintegrate very slowly.

Experimenting with an ovarian extract, Dr. Birch found that the extract caused the blood of those suffering from the disease to coagulate quickly.

She accordingly gave injections to two boys of a family of haemophiliacs in southern Illinois. One patient exhibited no further signs of the disease for eleven month, while his brother was seemingly immune from the ailment for a period of five months.

Although the treatment is not yet recognized in medical circles as a cure, the results thus far have been recognized by the medical college authorities as a distinct advance in treatment.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

FROM CONGRESSMAN SWICK

Editor New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.
My dear Mr. Conway:

Last week I wrote to you about the army medical center which comprises the Walter Reed hospital, medical, dental, nurses and veterinary schools; today I will write entirely about the Walter Reed hospital.

It is three stories high, built of red brick with white mortar and white stone trimmings, the architecture is colonial with a touch of federal. The main building with right, left and rear wings are connected by brick enclosed corridors, which are well heated and lighted, having inclined ramps to each floor in order that patients may be taken in wheel chairs or on stretchers from any part of each building to another without using the elevators.

The capacity of the hospital is approximately 1,000 beds, 95 per cent of which are constantly filled. This means upwards of 950 patients or about twice the number now in all the hospitals in the 26th congressional district comprising Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties

The various sections of the hospital are: general medical and surgical, neuropsychiatric, orthopedic, physio-therapy, occupational-therapy, eye, ear, nose and throat and tubercular. The active tubercular cases are usually removed at once to the army hospital at Denver, Col., and the mental cases after a period of observation, if unable to be sent home, are cared for at the St. Elizabeth hospital in Washington, D. C.

Equipment of the latest approved type available is used in each of the four operating rooms, X-ray and other departments. The staff, numbering 116 medical officers, come from all parts of the country and are men of outstanding ability, each of them being a specialist in his particular branch of the profession.

Through the use of physio-therapy and occupational-therapy, almost unbelievable results are obtained in the rehabilitation of many patients who are sent here for treatment.

An obstetric ward and wards for women and children are also available for the care of the wives and children of officers on duty at the post, who are entitled to treatment in the hospital.

I have endeavored in as few words as possible to give you a mental picture of this great institution. In my next letter I shall endeavor to describe briefly another unit of the center.

Your humble servant,
J. HOWARD SWICK.

Man And Woman Posing As Man And Wife Confess Series Of Forgeries

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 17—Alleged to have passed spurious checks in three states, James Kelly, 50 and Agnes Marsh 38, were under arrest today and authorities claim to have obtained confessions of protracted victimizing of business men and bankers in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Southern New York.

One Pymatuning Bill Is Reported

Appropriation Bill To Be Reported By Senate Committee In Short Time

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Indications that the legislation for the Pymatuning Dam will soon be statutory law are seen in the reporting out in the senate on Wednesday of the Stevenson bill which sets down the regulations for the use of the dam and the land adjacent for sportsmen's purposes.

This bill gives the Department of Forests and Waters the exclusive jurisdiction over the dam and the land adjacent, and insures to the sportsmen that no realty companies or private clubs will pre-empt the waters for fishing.

The appropriation bill of $1,500,000 will undoubtedly be reported out in a short time and when it is, will be signed, under the promise of Governor Pinchot.

Plan Wrestling Shows At Bowl

Boxing And Wrestling Bouts To Be Alternated Fritz States

OFFERS MATCHING JOB TO PHILADELPHIA MAN

Plans are under way for the inauguration of wrestling in this city according to Ed. Fritz, promoter of Castle bowl who stated today he had decided to give the mat game a whirl here.

For two weeks the promoter has been flinging out "lines" in an effort to secure a keen and capable matchmaker for the mat bouts and has offered the post to A. C. Bertolini of Philadelphia.

According to the reports Fritz has received, the Philadeljhia man knows his Wrestlin' Flesh and if he accepts the offer which was made in a letter written Bertolini the Philadelphian will reside in this city.

Wrestling bouts are being staged in all the larger cities of the country and it will be the plan of the bowl promoter to give the fans a chance to see the best known mat artists in the game.

Await Decision

In offering the post as matchmaker of wrestling to Bertolini, Fritz stated that it would leave him free to confine his matching to pugilists. Boxing and wrestling shows will be staged alternately, Fritz stated.

As in boxing, local boys who have taken to the mat game will be given a chance. Fritz stated however, that as matchmaker for the wrestling contests, Bertolini would have a free hand.

He expects to hear from Bertolini today or Saturday and as soon as the Philadelphian's decision is given further plans will be made. If he accepts the offer he will come here and arrange for the inaugural.

Morrie Suber the Sixth ward 165 pound boxer who is also a wrestler, is training hard in hopes of meeting Homer Gray or someone else in the next boxing show to be held here.

Dygert & Smith, exploiters of Punchin' Flesh declare that they have the biggest aggregation of boxers in western Pennsylvania. They cannot count their proteges on their fingers and toes.

Nick Adamo has returned to training. Joe Midway caught him with the first wallop he sent to the chin. Nick got up but was downed again. He wants to try conclusions with someone here.

Johnny Banko the West Pittsburg lightweight who recently underwent an operation is coming along in fine shape. However the battler will not be able to box for several months.

Discussing this angle with Bob Latera recently we remarked: "Well, Bob, you seem to be doing fine. You train 'em for the hospital.". He replied: "That looks almost true as Eddie Flick also had an appendix cut out."

Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling champion is in Cleveland today where he will wrestle George Saharias tonight in the Public auditorium. Londos once resided in Youngstown.

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., April 17.—Strong possibility that Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, may pitch his training camp at this noted summer resort to prepare for his coming joust with Young Stribling at Cleveland was seen today when it was learned that Joe Jacobs Schmeling's manager, and William S. Carey, boxing impressario, will confer with officials of the resort on Monday.

Long range negotiations via telephone were carried on last night between Jacobs and Carey, and R. J. McDonald, receiver for the Conneaut Lake Company. No definite decision was reached pending the visit of Jacobs and Carey.

One feature of the resort that was said to have appealed to Jacobs was the Temple of Music, with a seating capacity of 5,000 persons, could be utilized for Schmeling's indoor work before training camp spectators paying a per capita tribute of fifty cents.

In the event that Conneaut Lake is decided upon as Schmeling's preparation headquarters, it was pointed out, the training camp would be ideally situated to draw visitors from Cleveland, site of the coming battle which is 76 miles away from Erie and Meadville, and from Pittsburgh, all within quick motoring distance.

Rice Re-Elected Captain Of Westminster Basketball Team

Star Guard From Duquesne Again To Lead Titans Tossers

PHILLIP RICE

(Special to The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 17.—Phillip Rice, Duquesne, Pa., star guard on the Westminster college basketball team and captain of this year's Tri-State conference championship team, was yesterday re-elected captain for the 1932 season by a vote of the lettermen. Athletic Director Lawrence "Pops" Harrison had charge of the ballot.

Rice, a junior, has been an outstanding performer for the Titans for three seasons. He broke into the varsity lineup in his freshman year, playing a guard position, although he was a center on the Duquesne high school team before entering Westminster.

Always a cool player, Rice has been both a star on defense and on offense, but this was his most brilliant year on the offense. During the season just closed, Rice was second to "Bud" Brownlee, star center, in scoring with a total of 43 field goals and 26 fouls for 112 points.

Rice has twice been selected as all-district guard and has also been selected all-conference guard on two occasions. District coaches this year again selected him as an outstanding guard.

Yanks Look Good Under McCarthy

Yankees Take Third In Row From Boston Red Sox —Players Up On Toes

CLEVELAND TOPS CHICAGO 7 To 0

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 17.—Baseball fans today gave the nod to Jack McCarthy, new manager of the Yankees, the man kicked out last year by the Chicago Cubs owners. With a shift here and there and a demand for more alert playing, McCarthy apparently has improved the New York Americans vastly, although Lady Luck was on their side when they took the third in a row from the Boston Red Sox.

Horace Lisenbee, Red Sox right hander, suddenly turned big hearted in the ninth and threw at the man in the moon, instead of the plate, permitting Lazzeri to score from third and snatch it 2 to 1. Boston outhit the Yanks and Lisenbee pitched a better game than Herb Pennock, striking out seven. Ruth didn't get a hit.

Rookie Hits Homer.

A Boston Brave rookie, Charley Wilson, pushed out a homer off Dazzy Vance in the seventh to win, 7 to 4, for Boston's third straight over the Robins and the St. Louis Cardinals maintained their perfect percentage by again turning back the Cincy Reds, 6 to 3. Wally Roettger, right fielder of the Reds and New York Giant castoff, got five hits.

Walker, a Tiger recruit, dropped the ball in the ninth and permitted St. Louis to tie the score, but John Stone homered in the tenth to put Detroit even and the Bengals finally won out in the twelfth 6 to 5, when Gehringer doubled and scored off Alexander's single.

Senators Down Macks.

Washington took a 2 to 1 series over the Athletics as Miller popflied with the bags choked in the ninth, allowing the Senators to trundle it home, 5 to 4. Hank McDonald, 19-year-old rookie, hurled seven innings for the A's and when he gave way to Earnshaw, Washington grabbed three hits immediately.

The so-called snail ball remained at home in its shell and the Giants crashed 20 hits to humble the Phillies, 14 to 4.

George Grantham homered with one on in the eighth and gave the Pirates a victory, their first of the season, over the Cubs, 5 to 3.

Clint Brown sent the enemy hungry to bed, allowing only six blows as Cleveland blanked the White Sox, 7 to 0.

The University of Michigan reports total gifts received last year of $16,000,000. The donation of $15,000,000 by William C. Cook of New York was, of course, some help.—The Hartford Daily Times.

Carnera-Sharkey Bout Is Assured

Jimmy J. Johnston, Will Stage Big Show In Brooklyn On June Tenth

GARDEN MOGULS CAUSE TROUBLE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A 15-round bout between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, the choicest plum of the eastern outdoor boxing season, reposed in the lap of Promoter James J. Johston today.

After going through more maneuvers than the Atlantic fleet at target practice, Johnston qualified as a modern Merlin by getting Carnera reinstated by the New York boxing commission yesterday. Jimmy declared today that the dreadful Sharkey person and the champion spaghetti consumer would swap punches at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, on the night of June 10.

To Sign Next Week.

The fighters will be signed next week, according to Johnston, who declares he has the verbal consent of both boxers.

Sharkey already has started training by going on a fishing trip in New England. If the Boston tar happens to be fishing for suckers, the implication is not very complimentary to Primo.

There is one obstacle to the bout, and it may prove to be a formidable one. During one of his signing sprees, Carnera contracted with the Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois to meet the winner of the championship bout between Max Schmeling and Willie Stribling, which is to be held in Cleveland on July 3.

The Garden yesterday served warning on Carnera's managers Johnston and the New York boxing commission that it would brook no interference wtih Carnera's contract, and would go to court, if necessary to protect its interests.

How Jack Wooed, Won—And Lost—Estelle ---- By Scott

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, sees Estelle Taylor, movie actress, in a Hollywood art store and falls in love. She coolly ignores his smile but later, in a motion picture studio, they are introduced and become friends.

Dempsey's ardent courtship wins Estelle's hand and they are married in February of 1925 in San Diego, Cal. Shortly after Jack breaks with Jack Kearns, his life-long pal and manager. Jack's marriage is generally blamed for the split.

Their marriage seems ideal. Estelle's sympathy aids Jack in his dark hour of defeat after losing title to Gene Tunney. She manages his personal and business affairs as he trains for his come-back bout with the new champion in 1927.

Jack Dempsey

They appear in a Broadway play, but it fails. Dempsey, no longer the great champion, drifts from one business interest to another. His star in sportdom is rapidly waning while Estelle's fame as actress is in ascendancy.

Their paths begin to diverge. Estelle remains in Hollywood where she rises rapidly in her profession. Dempsey becomes a fight referee, necessitating many trips to all parts of the country. They begin to see each other less and less.

Now Dempsey is in Reno, Nev.—to sue for divorce. "I wanted a home, a family. Estelle wants an operatic career first," says Jack. "Nonsense! But if Jack asks for a divorce, I'll fight it," retorts Estelle. Thus ends a romance of the ring.

Girl Swimmers Display Speed

Helen Madison, Seattle Girl, Fails To Set Any New Records

IS NOT PUSHED IN SPEED EVENT

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 17.—There are girl swimmers—and there is Helen Madison.

The Seattle speed queen, who leaped from the ranks of the unknown to world-wide fame with her amazing aquatic feats last summer and who has shattered practically every free-style record for women since, didn't break any records last night, as the Senior National A. A. U. indoor swimming championship for women got under way at the local W. S. A. tank.

But Miss Madison did leave the rest of the all-stars field in the 100-yard sprint so far behind as she thrashed her way home in 1.03 1-5 that the officials have the first place medals for the 220 and 500 yard free-style race all wraped up and addressed to Seattle, Wash.

Helen Wainwright was good, and Gertrude Ederle and Ethelda Bleibtry were no slouches themselves when it came to getting from here to there in the water, but even those great W. S. A. stars were slow compared to the Seattle girl.

Miss Madison's poor time last night was accounted for by her faulty start, and by her half-miss of the first turn. In addition Josephine McKim, Dawn Gilson and Helen Hendry, the girls who finished in that order, the Seattle school girl, were all so far behind Miss Madison that she had no incentive for exerting herself.

Pirates Trim Chicago Cubs

George Grantham Smacks Homer That Gives Pittsburgh First Victory

PAUL WANER'S HEAVE HELPS

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, April 17—The Pittsburgh Pirates crashed through with their first victory of the 1931 season here on Thursday afternoon, when George Grantham smacked his homer in the eighth inning scoring one man ahead of him. The final score was 4 to 3.

It was Paul Waner who saved the day for the Pirates in the ninth inning when his great throw from the outfield to Traynor at third cut off Danny Taylor for the second out of the inning and then Comorosky took care of a long fly from the bat of Hartnett to end the inning.

Heinie Meine started for the Pirates but was ditched in the sixth in favor of Glenn Spencer who finished the game and got credit for the victory. Manager Hornsby used Blake, Teachout and Malone, but could not pull the game out of the fire.

KNUTE ROCKNE'S BEST STORIES

One of the best stories they still tell about Knute Rockne has to do with basketball and not football.

Believe it or not but Rock was once a basketball coach—for a very short time, it is true, but nevertheless a cage coach.

Gus Dorais, who was Rockne's forward pass partner during their playing days, was cage mentor at Notre Dame back in 1920. Gus fell ill and Rock stepped into his place, temporarily.

Somehow or other Rock never could seem to fathom the hardwood sport and cared very little for it.

I don't recall just how many games that Rockne-coached net team dropped, but they were plenty. The school grins about it now that Notre Dame is on a plane with the best in the cage sport.

Well, Rockne as basketball coach had a bunch of football players on his quintet—Arthur Garvey, Harry Mehre, Roge Kiley and others.

At half-time in one game in which the Irish netters were being shellacked by more experienced foes, Rockne gave a pep talk that is a classic.

He looked over his sorrowing crew and then spoke.

"Forget this basketball stuff tonight, boys," Rock said. "Go out there and play good, har-r-rd football! That's all you know anyhow!"

Find The Right Putting Stance; Don't Change It!

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

Putting is left to the individual, that is true, but there are certain fundamentals to be followed which will build a well-founded stance and stroke for the successful putter, the comfort of the player.

A professional player will change his stance every once in a while so that he may get out of a putting slump, but he will always go back to the style which has served him best.

Denny Shute putts a great deal like Smith, with the exception of his right foot, which is a trifle back of the left one. This affords him a steady and well-balanced footing.

Some years back this writer and Denny Shute played together a great deal. He has always had the same swing and the same stance on the green.

I can see no change in Denny's style—that is, a very noticeable one—but he has developed the fine points and now his sole object is direction and accuracy.

The average golfer should study the putting styles of the professional and adapt himself to one that will fit his purpose. But regardless of this adoption, first discover if it is well founded and not a freak stance.

The best in the game stand with their feet together and use a smooth stroke, out after the ball.

GREENS OPEN FOR PLAY SATURDAY

If Weather Conditions Unsuitable Will Be Kept Closed Temporarily

Municipal golf course greens will be open for play Saturday, according to announcement today by Howard B. Richards, chairman of the civilian golf committee. Permission was granted Greenskeeper John C. Reed yesterday for the opening of the greens.

Play will continue on the greens during suitable weather but may be discontinued temporarily if unsatisfactory weather arrives.

The course is rapidly rounding into shape, according to reports from Richards.

Ditches have been filled and seeded. Drainage pipes were laid some time ago.

The rough ground between the No. 1 and No. 9 fairways has been plowed, graded and seeded and the improvement has met with golfers' approval.

At present work is being concentrated on widening out and clearing up No. 4, which is the former No. 2.

It is proposed to rebuild and remodel No. 4 green which is to be banked and trapped.

Richards stated that No. 5 has been changed to remove the hazard of hitting players on No. 2 green with drives from that point.

It is proposed to erect a fence in the lake on No. 15 fairway to prevent balls from dropping into the septic tank pool.

Ball Yard Banter

Brooklyn-New York National league rivalry, the keenest of any in the major leagues, seems destined this season to be sharper than ever. The clubs are fairly evenly matched and both are considered in the running for the pennant.

* * *

A Robin-Giant ball game always is a good show even when one of the clubs is unmistakably the superior of the other.

* * *

Strangely enough Brooklyn, though ranking below the Giants in the final standings in each of the last two seasons, managed to win more than half of their games from their inter-borough rivals.

* * *

All of which seems to bear out the Flatbush boast that any Brooklyn team can defeat any New York team over a season's course.

* * *

At the close of the 1929 season New York was in third place while Brooklyn could do no better than sixth, yet the Robins trounced the Giants 14 times while New York won but seven games!

* * *

Last season a fourth-place Brooklyn team defeated a third-place New York team 13 out of 22 times!

* * *

In 1920 the Brooklyns nosed out the Giants for the pennant. In 1924 the Giants nosed out the Robins for the flag. Their scrapping this season may be so intense that by breaking even the two clubs may cost each other the championship.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Fairly Good Volume Of Overnight Buying

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 17.—Sharp declines in a handful of the market specialties and slight recoveries in the Industrials and Utilities were the outstanding feature of a dull and quiet session this morning. The Industrial Blue-Chips had the benefit of a fairly good volume of overnight buying orders, based on the improvement in certain divisions of American business. American Can moved up about 2 points and Consolidated Gas gained 1¼. United States Steel was up a point at 133 and General Electric up ⅝ at 44.

The bears hammered a few of the Specialty favorites in the second hour. Auburn Auto was cracked for a 17-point drop to 254, while Electric Autolite fell off about 4 points to 57 and Liquid Carbonic 4¼ to 37. Atlantic Refining was the weak spot in the Oils, dropping off 1½ to 15¾ on publication of the first quarterly report which showed a deficit of $2,162,800 against a profit of $1,124,300 in the first quarter of 1930. DuPont was heavily sold in its 3-point drop to 88.

The Rails and Utilities held firmly as Industrial favorites gradually settled to a lower level near the noon hour. Best demand in the Rail list was seen for Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania and other established dividend payers. Some of of the Industrials which bore the brunt of heavy selling in the fore part of the week stiffened on short covering, but the general trend of the market was downward.

The $27,000,000 increase in brokers loans was the result chiefly of the heavy bond financing of last week. Grain markets took their cue from the strength in Liverpool and prices rose fractionally. Cotton was steady; and call money unchanged at 1½ per cent.
